She was second in both events in the WAAA meet and third in both at the Class A state championships in the 100 and 200 free. She posted times of 1:56.54 and 2:12.12, respectively. "This was Nicole's first year of high school swimming," coach Roger Fryor said. "With this season, we've seen her future goals begin to take shape. She's a great swimmer and will be a great asset to the WAAA as well as the state."

ROBERTA ORR, 100 backstroke, senior, Farmington. Orr was seventh in the state in the 100 and 200. Her backstroke time of 1:51.75, that meet, was a school record and the season's best by an Observer swimmer. She was Catholic League champion in both events and set off Merry League championship meet relay team. Orr was second in Dan and County in the 200 and fourth in the 100. She was a state quarter final consecutive years. "She was really our most valuable swimmer," said Fryor, adding Orr is the team's backstroke relay team's anchor.

CINDY CRAMER, 100 breast, senior, N. Farmington. Cramer earned a spot on the All-Area team for a fourth straight year and under consideration a second time for All-American recognition. She is a lifetime, all-city swimmer. Cramer won the Oakland County and WAAA championships in the breast and was second in the state with a 1:55.92 time. She also won the August's 100 free time with a record time of 55.11.

In addition, Cramer was third in the state in the 100 and 200 free and was a member of North's free relay team that placed third in the

AT-LARGE BERTHS

JULIE JENSEN, junior, John Glenn: The highlight of Jensen's season was a fourth-place finish in the 100 at the state meet. She swam a 2:15.73 time, which put her in a class with fellow All-Area swimmers Martin, Doran and Cramer.

She tops school records in the 100 (2:15.5), butterfly (4:00.0) and 100 free (55.6) and was a member of record-setting medley and free relay teams. Jensen is a student who hopes to study engineering when she enters college.

"Julie is an extremely disciplined, as well as talented athlete," coach Jeff Fryor said. "She enjoys what she does and is about both in and out of the pool."

CASSIE CUMMINS, sophomore, Canton: Cummins set variety records in the 100 and the backstroke and was part of the Chiefs' free relay, which ranked among the top five in the country.

Cummins was WAAA champion in the backstroke and finished third in the 100 in the state trials. She was 11th in both events.

"Cassie had a great season and earned more valuable experience for next year," Fryor said. "She is a great swimmer and can swim just about anywhere we need her."

MARCY MULBARGER, sophomore, N. Farmington. Mulbarger's specialty was the breast, concentrating on her ability and making the Raiders especially strong in the event.

She was fourth in the state (1:08.54) and second in the county and league meets. She also was 10th in the league among 100 swimmers and eighth in the state (1:14.1).

ELIZABETH TUCKER, freshman, Harrison: Tucker capped her first year of varsity competition by taking fifth in the Class B state championships in the breast and 100 in the 100.

During the season, she set a variety of records of 1:11.02 in the breast and was fourth in the league in that event at 1:11.79. She also was seventh in the WAAA with a 2:17.56 time in the 100.

"El is the most talented freshman swimmer I have ever had," coach Bruce McKeown said.

TONYA HALLECK, junior, Thurston: Halleck captured second place in the Class B state meet as a 500-yard freestyle. She posted a 5:14.55 time, which vaulted her into third place in the weekly Observer listings behind McKeown and Dove.

Halleck also was seventh in the state in the 200 free with a 1:59.4 time, a personal best. She was Thurston League champion in both events and holds school records in both.

"She has a lot of potential," coach Shelly Morse said. "She hasn't hit her peak yet. She's a great all-around student/athlete in academics as well."

AMY MENEILLEY, senior, N. Farmington: Meneilley was the fourth member of the Raiders' freestyle relay team that finished third in the state and was nine seconds faster than any other area foursome with a 3:39.48 time.

North's team captain was 10th in the 200 and 500 freestyles and performed on the championship free relay team in the WAAA meet. She also qualified for state and swam her best times in the 200 free (2:00.1) and 500 free (5:20.7) in that meet.

LAUREN WEARY, sophomore, Farmington: Weary was selected to the All-Area team for her contribution to the Raiders' medley relay team — as were teammates Lori Kiel, Stacy Schalm and Katie Hoyl — but she swam in other areas, too.

Weary was second in the league in the backstroke and butterfly. In the county meet, she was third in the 100. Her time of 59.2 in the 100 was a 2:10.00 record for the junior national club. While the medley relay was 10th at state, she also anchored the 12th-place free relay, though she was not expected to compete due to mononucleosis.

"She's a teammate through and through," coach Ross Bandy said. "She could have gone up to state and out, but she didn't."

"She swam as well as she has in her life this year, and she has a ways to go yet. I honestly think she has the ability to win (the state title in the butterfly)."

LORI KIEL, senior, Farmington: Kiel swam the breaststroke in the medley relay, helping the Raiders post a 1:55.03 time.

In the individual breast, she was 12th in the league as a junior, but made the jump to eighth in the state this year. Her best time a year ago was 1:16.0, and she swam 1:09.7 in the recent state meet. She was third in the WAAA at 1:11.0.

"When you make that kind of drop, you wonder how much there is left to go out," Bandy said. "She did a heckuva job."

STACY SCHALM, senior, Farmington: Schalm was second in the league as a 50 freestyle, and she swam the anchor (free) leg of the medley relay. She was part of the Raiders' freestyle relay, too.

"She was very determined to see her team qualify for state and earn a medal," Bandy said. "Being a senior and never having been to the state meet, she wanted to leave something there and she did."

KATIE HOHL, sophomore, Farmington: Hoyl was third in the league in the 100 free and narrowly missed qualifying for state. She also was on the 12th-place free relay team at state.

"Her goal, by the time she's a senior, is to be a state champion," Bandy said. "I think she has the ability. She's somebody I can always count on."

Nichols was the team's third-leading tackler with 83, including three sacks and seven tackles for loss. Nichols was named second team All-Ten, and was an honorable mention All-American.

Krumm and Miller had both switched from cornerback to safety. The move worked. Krumm, a senior from West Bloomfield, led the Big Ten with nine interceptions. He was first-team All-Big Ten and second-team All-American.

Miller, a junior from Farmington Harrison, was selected to the Big Ten team and was honorable mention All-American. Four of his six interceptions came against the University of Michigan, a Big Ten record that earned him defensive player of the week honors.

The offensive line met the challenge as well, averaging 238.1 yards rushing a game to help offset a lackluster passing attack (just 97 yards per outing).

AS HOULE said, "It makes it a lot harder if the other team knows we're going to run. But we just got the attitude we're going to do it anyway. We were convinced we could physically overcome anything." Now, there's just one more obstacle for MSU to hurdle — that west coast jinx. The Spartans are trying to ignore it — as Kula said, "We can only control our future, we can't help what's happened to Big Ten teams in the past — but that won't be easy. Distractions are everywhere."
