Meredith Stumpo concludes her floor exercise routine. The 14-year-old freshman is expected to provide new talent at Farmington this season.

Gymnasts ready for '88

Rita Dunn, who developed some gymnastic ability as a cheerleader, could contribute in the all-around, as could Amy Sprayberry in floor exercise and Becky Hauptman, Tina's sister, on the uneven bars. All three are juniors.

The Raiders acquired additional talent when the family of sisters Karen and Ellen Wesselman moved to Michigan from Germany. Karen (junior) is a vaulter, and Ellen (sophomore) could compete on the beam, vault or floor exercise.

North, 13-1 in dual meets and runner-up to Troy Athens in the regional and state meets, faces a difficult situation as it tries to maintain its tradition this year.

"Everyone is out to beat us, of course," Dwyer said. "Last year there was a lot more pressure, because everyone expected us to be good."

"This year there's a lot less pressure. There's still pressure to stay at the top, but it's a lot less."

FARMINGTON HARRISON

Jaqueline Huff's loyalties will have undergone a drastic change when the Hawks open their 1988 girls gymnastics season tonight against Plymouth-Salem at home. Huff was a senior competing for Salem a year ago. Now she's the head coach of Harrison's team.

"It's going to be really interesting," she said of the meet. "I'm still really close to everybody on that team."

Huff, who attends Wayne State University, competed at the varsity level for four years and has been teaching at private clubs for three years.

"Everybody has been supportive," she said. "As far as the girls respecting me, it's worked out so far. The parents have been real helpful, and they're getting involved."

The Hawks have 14 girls on their team, six of whom are returning varsity gymnasts. Only four have extensive experience on the varsity, however.

Senior Jody Solomon is Harrison's top gymnast, having qualified for the regional in the all-around and beginning her fourth year on the varsity.

Her sister, sophomore Amy Solomon, is strong on the balance beam and will compete in everything on the vault.

The same is true of senior Michelle Watnik with the uneven bars being the exception. Junior Jenny Rick, the team captain, qualified for regionals on the vault, and she competes on the bars and all-around, too.

Junior Julie Robbins was injured last year, but is expected to help on the beam. Freshman Michelle Doecker had "very little gymnastics experience coming in, but already has improved so much I can't believe it," Huff said.

Borgess falls in overtime to Flint Central

By Steve Kowalski
staff writer

Flint Central's Bishop Borgess found out the hard way it is difficult to win an overtime basketball game after punching out of work at halftime.

Borgess, ahead 42-34 after two quarters, played an uninspired second half and was outscored 6-1 in the extra period to lose 73-68 at Flint Central.

The Spartans' loss was the first of the season against two wins. The Indians improved their record to 6-1.

This was the second straight game for the Spartans against one of the state's better Class A teams. Borgess, one of the top-ranked teams in Class B, defeated Class A Saginaw Dec. 22, 72-63.

"Flint Central played the second half like they wanted to win it," said a disappointed Fusco. "They came into the second half with more poise. They have a nice group of sophomores that were determined to win the game and that we were."

"I think as one point, we had five players playing their own individual game instead of a team game."

SAID CENTRAL coach Stan Gooch: "They (Borgess) were physical early and our assistant told me at halftime that they looked tired. Maybe that's why they got in foul trouble late."

Guard Jay Green, regarded as the best of Central's sophomores, scored 22 points, 22 of which came after halftime. Craig Houston, another sophomore, finished with 22 points. That combination scored 19 of Central's final 21 points, including all 15 of the team's fourth-quarter points.

Injuries and foul trouble at the guard positions also led to the Spartans' demise. Starting guard Marcus Clouston left the game on a stretcher at the end of the third quarter after dislocating his left knee on a collision with Central player Bertrand Waldron and Dwayne Kelly (who led the Spartans with 22 points), both fouled out.

Kelly's fifth foul proved to be the most costly. With the score tied at 67, Kelly was called for an offensive foul.

charge with one second remaining, sending the game into overtime.

"I won't comment on officiating," Fusco said.

Gooch would, however. "Those things even out," he said. "We lose some calls go against us earlier. I thought the referees were consistent with the charge call."

REBOUNDING ALSO told the story. Borgess' 6-foot-7 center Parish Hickman, who had 16 points, collected nine rebounds, most of those coming in the first half. Central outrebounded Borgess for the game 37-33 including 14-5 in the third quarter.

"I told you they wanted to win the game," said Fusco, who told how much his team was outrebounded by in the third quarter. "We wanted to improve our individual stats."

Central chipped away at Borgess' halftime lead in the third quarter, whittling the Spartans' lead to two, 54-52 on two free throws by Green at the end of the quarter.

Green tied the score at 54 on a fast break after a Borgess turnover. The Spartans' biggest lead after that point was 60-58 on a dunk by Kelly with a little more than four minutes remaining.

Hickman gave Borgess its last lead, 67-65, on a lay-up with 2:12 left. Green's court-length drive tied the score at 67. The Spartans had three possessions to win the game, but two turnovers by sophomore Shawn Respect and Kelly's offensive charge ended those hopes of winning in regulation time.

GOOCH CREDITED Central's man-to-man defensive pressure in the win.

"We haven't played man-to-man all year before today," he said. "In the first half we played zone because we wanted to see if they could hit jump shots. But they were getting inside and getting easy layups so we switched."

The only thing
a kid
should be getting in school is smarter.

Unfortunately, what too many of them are getting instead is drugs. With your help, it doesn't have to be this way.

There is a program called "Schools Without Drugs: The Challenge" that can help you deal with the drug problem in your community or school.

Find out about it. The smarter you are about what works against drugs, the better chance our kids will understand how dumb it is to take them.
