'Save Woods' Cry Goes Public

By MARIE McGEHE
The fight to save Volk's Woods from becoming an apartment complex will be carried to the people.

That was the decision Thursday night, Nov. 19, when more than 80 interested persons attended an informational meeting and voted to form a chartered organization with the goal of preserving the 20 acres of extremely rare mature beech-maple trees.

He reportedly paid $3,000 an acre for the land for a total of $60,000 and is said to be as close to a quarter of a million dollars for the acreage at the present time.

THE THURSDAY night meeting was called by a small but determined group known as the Save Volk's Woods committee. Its leaders are Mrs. William Lindhout and Mrs. Robert B. King.

Prompted by the audience's enthusiastic response to the proposed plans, Mahl commented encouragingly: "I think it can be done despite the extremely high amount of money that seems to be involved here."

ALL WERE convinced the woods should be preserved. Drawing on his vast experience in establishing nature centers throughout the country (the nearest is at Drayton Plains) Mahl suggested that a chartered organization be set up before any fundraising plans are made.
