

Matmen place in tourneys

FARMINGTON HAD two wrestlers win consolation titles Saturday in the Milford Lakeland Invitational. In battles for third place, the Falcons' T.J. Armstrong and Charles Wyatt won their bouts at 138 and 198 pounds, respectively. Armstrong pinned a Lapeer West opponent, and Wyatt edged Brother Rice's Ed Arner on a 3-2 decision.

Wyatt's bout with Arner was pivotal in deciding the tournament winner. Had Arner won, the Warriors would have won the tournament. Instead, Rice finished four points behind Lake Orion, 189-185.

Lakeland was third (145) in the nine-team tournament followed by Lapeer West (72), Walpole Lake Western (67) and Farmington (59%).

The Falcons' Bill Lindberg, Rob Woodbeck and Paul Daniels were third at 185, 132 and heavyweight, respectively.

Lindberg did not have the opportunity to wrestle for a consolation title due to an injury. He had injured his neck earlier, and coach Al Beyer said he didn't want to take a chance on Lindberg doing further damage with the Western Lakes meet coming up Saturday.

Windsor team outskates CC

Windsor Riverside of Ontario outskated Redford Catholic Central Saturday in a non-league prep hockey game at the Redford Ice Arena, 6-3.

The loss drops the Shamrocks to 10-3-2 overall.

CC led 2-1 after one period on a power-play goal by Chris Hohnick, followed by an unassisted goal by Joe Cyrek.

But the Shamrocks, who outshot Riverside 25-22, were only able to score once more, that coming in the third period on a penalty shot by Jim Hubenschmidt.

On Saturday, CC faces Trenton in a battle of state-ranked teams. Both teams are tied for first in the Michigan Metro High School Hockey League with each.

Game time is 8 p.m. at the Redford Arena.

Mansell lifts Clarenceville

For Livonia Clarenceville senior Julie Mansell, Monday's gymnastics meet against Belleville was like a dream come true as she turned in a stellar performance.

Mansell placed first in every event but one, as the Trojans won at home, 126.30-121.55.

Mansell finished first on the uneven parallel bars (8.5), balance beam (8.3) and the floor exercise (8.45). She ended up with an all-around score of 32.35.

Another gymnast who performed well for Clarenceville was Denise Albert. She placed first on the vault (8.5) and was second on bars (8.0).

Belleville's Wendy Trask was the leading scorer for the losers finishing second in floor exercise (8.25) and third on bars (7.8).

Productive times Westland's Burt goes on goal-scoring tear

By Larry O'Connor staff writer

hockey

If goals were dynamite, Adam Burt wouldn't have had enough to blow his nose last year.

His four goals last season took a shine off an otherwise outstanding year. And the lack of goal scoring might have been part of the reason the Westland native went in the second round instead of the first at the National Hockey League Entry Draft last season.

But that was last year. This is this year.

Burt has become a sniper of late, scoring 10 goals already this season for the North Bay Centennials. A two goal and six assists output in a recent seven day span earned him Hockey News Ontario Hockey League "Player of the Week" honors.

And rumors of Gump Worsley coming out of retirement as a result of Burt's anemic goal scoring have been permanently laid to rest.

"It's a switch, isn't it?" said Burt, via telephone from North Bay.

OBVIOUSLY, one of the reasons for the increase in goals is Burt's additional ice time. He is on the Centennials' power play and logging a regular shift.

Also, Burt doesn't feel like a commodity on the trading board with his value continually going up and down like last season. The draft has past since Burt was selected in the second round by the Hartford Whalers.

At times, the impending draft had Burt a little taut. This season, he's relaxed.

"THAT'S THE big difference," in Babych, Samuelsson and Sylvain Cole.

Burt might be able to make the team next season. If not, he still has another year of junior left.

BERT TEMPLETON, coach of the Centennials, would undoubtedly enjoy another year of Burt's presence. But he wants what's best for Burt in the long run.

"If he's ready to go and able to make Hartford and take a regular shift, then I'd like to see him make it," Templeton said. "If he's going to sit around... not so."

Before he cracks the lineup, though, Hartford wants him crack on the weights and add to his 6-foot-2-inch, 185-pound frame.

One dimension the Whalers won't have to add to Burt's game is his willingness to scrap. He already has amassed 159 penalty minutes this season with the Centennials.

AND HE PLANS on taking that aggressiveness with him to the NHL. In one exhibition game against the Quebec Nordiques, he tried to go after winger Lane Lambert, formerly of the Detroit Red Wings.

"I dropped the gloves in front of the net and he didn't do anything," said Burt, sounding befuddled. "I guess he didn't want to bother."

The speed of the NHL was something Burt had to get used to. After were Ladywood's top hitters, combining for eight kills.

REDFORD BISHOP BORGESS slipped past by Harper Woods Regina in three games (7-15, 15-7 and 15-14) Monday night in a Catholic High School League game.

Host Borgess improved its Central Division record to 4-3, 15-4 overall, while visiting Regina fell to 3-4 in the Central.

Kristy McFadden, Melissa Mars and Ann Dillamro scored most of the points for the Spartans, while Dawn Pinchbeck and Katy Foley enjoyed a good night defensively.

"We played without our center hitter tonight," Bishop Borgess coach Jerry Abraham said. "The kids really responded well."

LIVONIA STEVENSON routed Walpole

volleyball

Lake Central Monday in a WLLA Lakes Division matchup (15-1, 15-7) to improve its record to 4-1 in league play.

Stevenston's Sue Zatorski did the scoring, making good on eight of 20 attempts including eight kills. Shariene Sudek made good on 100 percent of her passes, while Laura Brown played well defensively. Offensively, Brown contributed eight kills and three service aces.

Stevenston coach Lee Cagle said his team turned things around after a bad weekend.

Stevenston went 2-2 in matches played at East Kentwood.

The Spartans are 20-3 overall.

N. Farmington falters

North Farmington wasn't up to playing its usually strong brand of volleyball Monday, and Westland John Glenn came from behind to defeat the Raiders, 9-15, 15-14, 15-11.

"The whole team played flat," North coach Sandy Lubieniecki said. "John Glenn did a nice job."

"It was one of those nights we just played poorly."

The Raiders are 2-2 in the Lakes Division and 17-4 overall. Glenn is 4-0 and 13-7.

Stephanie Knapp was 8-of-8 serving in the first game with seven points and three aces. North, however, missed 11 serves in the three games.

Missy Bosscawen was 16-of-17 hitting with four kills, and Suzi Butcher, returning to full-time play after coming back from an ankle injury, was 16-of-18 with six kills.

Glenn's Becky Wilson had 14 kills and Denise Gumke 10. Colleen O'Brien served four aces.

SALEM 15-15, FARMINGTON 2-8: Meg Foley had three aces as the Rocks served only 19 times in the first game. Roseann Sumpter, Laura Porterfield and Asaka Motoyama had three kills apiece.

Mercy skiers defeat Groves

Farmington Hills Mercy had no problem keeping its perfect skid record intact Monday with an easy, 10-29 victory over Birmingham Groves at Mount Brighton.

The Marlins, who are 4-0 in dual meets and have won two giant slaloms, relied on their depth to score the minimum number of points.

Two of Mercy's best skiers, Beth McIntosh and Stephanie John, took tumblers on the first run down the slopes, but the Marlins coasted to victory despite the mishaps.

"One of the younger skiers said, 'Boy, we're going to lose now,'" after McIntosh and John fell, coach Cass Zarlikowski said. "I said, 'But we've still got five more to come down.'"

Mercy's Molly McDonald, the team's No. 3 skier, placed first overall with a 49.44 time, and teammates Deanna Senatore (52.84), Sarah Prizell (54.37) and Taya Tiplady (58.31) followed in second, third and fourth places.

"We've got good depth, and this is going to give them confidence," Zarlikowski said.

In addition, Mercy's Patrice Vincenti was sixth with a 61.53 time. Groves' top skier was fifth-place Cammy Risk (61.34).
