IT HURTS BEHIND MY LEG

It is an axiom of nature: for an injured joint, splint in front and splint in back.
Splinting is the way that the body treats knee trauma whether such injury is from a fracture or, as in the case of arthritis, results from inflammation. The hamstring muscles in back of the knee joint tighten up while extensor muscles do the same in front. The result is a splint that often suffices to completely rest the joint. However, this extra effort by the muscles comes at a cost of strain and tension which you perceive as an aching leg.
You may tell your doctor that you are feeling discomfort in the back of the leg. However, don't be surprised if your doctor starts his examination by a careful look at the knee joint.
Your physician may uncover signs of excess fluid, swelling of the knee capsule, and tenderness in the knee joint. Such findings are important. Pain in the back of the leg will end only when inflammation in the knee joint is controlled.

THIS YEAR'S REQUIRED READING FOR 1,000,000 COLLEGE GRADUATES

Welcome to Real World 101.

You'd be surprised how many college students go from highlighting textbooks to highlighting the classifieds. The fact is, a staggering number of graduates are unable to secure a career in their field of study.

That's why there's a nationwide program for college students called Cooperative Education. It allows students to alternate studies at the college of their choice with paid, practical work experience in the career of their choice. So Co-op Education students graduate with more than a degree. They have practical knowledge. And a competitive advantage in a crowded job market.

If you're a student, you should seriously consider the Co-op Education Program.

Because after years of studying in college, the last thing you need is another reading assignment.

Go-op Education

You earn a future when you earn a degree.
