A NOT-FOR-PROFIT CORPORATION

Thompson, 58, will seek the Republican nomination to succeed Paterson, retiring to private practice after four terms. In his first bid for office, Thompson of Cleveland will have his old boss and Sheriff John Walsh as campaign co-workers.

"We've had one general philosophy — make sure the victim is properly represented in court," Thompson, citing a letter of thanks from a state legislator for work toward a Crime Victims Rights Act. A THREE-YEAR GOP primary is certain. Last week John McDonald, a county commissioner from Farmington, announced his candidacy. Jeffrey Lach, a West Bloomfield Township resident, plans to announce next week. Democrats are expected to recruit Michael Alan Schwartz, administrator of the Attorney Grievance Commission.

The son of an immigrant auto worker from Dearborn, Thompson earned a reputation at Michigan's elite as a tough prosecutor. His tenure as state attorney general drew several years of his military background, detachment and then earned his Wayne State University law degree.
