Following harvesting, many growers will hydrocoot their peaches to remove the field beat. This rapid to coots the fruit to retard ripening, deierioration of quality and the growth of 10 organisms.

In hydrocooling, peaches are usually drenched in itee water or sprayed, which usually includes a germicidal agent. Therefore, it's best to wash thoroughly before eat-

In one room, a Polish-American man sat mute and motiocless. Recently beraved, he was grief-stricken and refused to be consoled.

"When he saw that pactit, he gave a big smile for the first time, and told a story" about his native Poland where peasant and aristocrat alike had to wait in line at the bakery for pactal, Kryza said happily. "It was the packet that started it ali."

Stories like these are what keep the two deRos Delicacies owners going, Kryza said, in fact, their business was at first named Love Basket because each basket was a labor of love.

EVERY BASKET IS custom-made to fit an occasion, and even the per-son to whom it's being sent is taken into consideration when the basket is designed.

Pour batter over peaches. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Mean-while, prepare meringue by beating egg whites until foamy. Gradually beat in ¼ cup sugar and beat until stiff peaks are formed. Top dessert-with meringue and the worm at 350 grees for 12 minutes. Serve warm.

"We're very fussy," Kryza said se-riously. "Every piece has to be ironed." Some of the linens have such unusual prints they can be framed or made into a pillow, Fabi-

The two women will even go to such lengths as painting the baskets if they feel they can't get the right look any other way.

In fact, one sample basket in a rich navy blue did match surprisingly well with the exquisitely patterned navy and burgundy napkin the cousins had aptly named "Bird in Flight."
