Mazzoni's passing sparks Adrian win

CC eyes rematch with an old nemesis

T'S ALREADY THE third week of the season, but for some teams it's time to start anew and wipe away the bad fortune that has plagued a number of Observerland football teams so far.

Division play begins in carnest this week in the Western Lakes Activities Association and the Western Lakes Activities Association and the Ostomerous and Tri-fliver leagues. Catholic League teams begin divisional queets next week.

After taking a bath the first week, your expert(?) prognosticater Brad Emons correctly prognosticater Brad Emons correctly prognosticater Brad Emons correctly prognosticater of the strength of the prognosticate of the strength of the strengt week before.

But O'Meara still holds a commanding lead after two weeks with a 23-7 record; Emons is 19-

11. Several key matchups are on tap for this weekend with the most notable being Redford Catholic Central and Ann Arbor Ploneer, a rematch of last year's state Class A champlooship game. Game time is 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Livonia Clarencettle.

Which made Mazzoni's job easier. But his intelligence is an obvious set, too — be even knows how to spread the credit around.

"He did a real good job," was Labadie's assessment of Mazzoni. "He stepped into a situation where it was his first start, and he was able to do all the things we asked of him, like reading defenses at the line of scrimmage.

"He's an intelligent kid who can set aside individual things and get the job done."

NOT THAT Mazzoni has already ascended to Crosthwalie's level; he harbors so such lilasion. "He was a better runer, a better serambler than am.," Mazzoni sald, the word of the
