A Michigan first

The check was a big one — $2,700 — that passed from Dennis Pheney, president of Farmington Area Exchange Club, to Bill Face, chairman of Michigan Exchange Club Child Abuse Conter. The money was contributed to Michigan's first child abuse prevention center that will open in Washtenaw County. It is the 30th such center in the U.S. that Exchange Clubs have opened to give counseling to families of abused and potentially abused children.
