

This scene, emerging out of the mist in Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, made a strong romantic photo for Monte Nagler, whose camera was ready in advance to record the moment.

When traveling, put your traveler's vision in gear and be ready for the unusual.

Be prepared for unexpected

In most of my columns, I've talked about planning photographs, studying the composition, determining the depth-of-field, expressing a single idea — in short, thinking it out in advance.

Sometimes, however, a picture just happens. And if you and your camera are ready, you can capture the moment on film.

How often have you been caught without your camera when a rainbow suddenly arched across the sky or a setting sun cast vibrant colors? Or perhaps your youngster looked at you with that unforgettable expression and your camera was packed away out of reach.

Many well-known photographs, even Pulitzer Prize winners, were obtained only because someone was there at the right time with a loaded camera.

BE PREPARED and those exciting moments won't escape your lens.

You never know when that special picture will come up, so begin by disciplining yourself to have a camera with you at all times. Make sure it's loaded with film and that the ASA dial is properly set.

When traveling, put your traveler's vision in gear and be ready for the unusual.

On a trip last summer to eastern Canada, I was on a ferry about to arrive in Yarmouth, Nova Scotia. The morning had been very foggy and visibility on the water hardly existed. Yet, my camera was loaded and ready for the unexpected. As we approached Yarmouth Harbor, the scene shown here opened up like magic in front of my eyes. A row of docked fishing boats engulfed by circling seagulls suddenly appeared out of the mist. Had I not been prepared, I would have lost the shot.

You may only have a few seconds before the rainbow vanishes, the cloud pattern changes or the facial expression is lost.

By taking a few simple steps to prepare your camera and yourself, you'll be able to preserve those magical moments on film and treasure them for a lifetime.
