National Library Week winners are announced

Six elementary school children won prizes for the posters they created and another four youngsters were lucky winners in drawings that were all part of National Library Week festivities.

Amy Berke won first place in the preschool/kindergarten category for her poster of Hansel and Gretel. She was followed by Lauren Frye, who drew a poster of Word Bird.

In the first to third grade category, Jessica Dong took first place for Bear's Bargain, and Daniel Singer took second for Heathcliff All American.

Winners in the contest for fourth and fifth graders were Dana Abro for Wednesday Witch and Heather Burear for Harry's Mad.

David Crabbill's barcode number won him a Little Professor's Book store $25 gift certificate. Renee Ouellette's barcode number was chosen for second prize and she won a stuffed animal.

In another drawing, Daniel Carlson won a set of World Book encyclopedias and David Viane won a two-volume World Book Dictionary.

The activities were all sponsored by the Farmington Hills Branch Library.
