Observerland's only quads celebrated their second Christmas this year just one month after their birthdays on Nov. 24. Observer photographer Harry Mauthe visited them on the day after Christmas at their home, 11385 Dixie in Redford Township with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Pulter Jr. and brothers Brian and Todd. The only time it was possible to get the frailest some quarter quiet was in their feeding tables, shown above. The quads are (from left): Bradley, Stephanie, Suzanne and Stacey. And like all two-year-olds enjoying Santa Claus for the first time, it was once they were out of the seats. It was a big time for the four tots and their brothers but a trying time for Mom and Dad, who were busy constantly - separating a quad from toys that belonged to another crying in a corner, or attempting to get some semblance of order. Only the parents of quadruplets know just how impossible this can be. Turn to page 8B for the story of a visit with the quads.
