Summer Reading Club winds up season

YOUNG READERS were pushed out of their own libraries and into a room on Orchard Ridge Campus to accommodate them all for Farmington Community Library Summer

Reading Club's end-of-the-season party.

A total of 320 Farmington and Farmington youngsters — the largest number recorded in the club membership — read at least six books to get an invitation to the party, and many of them brought their youngster sisters and brothers.

Neil Woodward had an enthusiastic audience for his performance of clap-to-the-beat and sing-along folk tunes. About a dozen readers won prizes for guessing the number of cereal figures packed into a jar, and all readers left with an ice cream treat.

And the winners are . . . Kristin Heinrich (left), who guessed closest to the number of cereal figures in the jar at the Farmington Branch Library, and Jackie Lamden, who won for her guess at the Farmington Hills Branch. Kristin will be a fourth grader in Flanders Elementary School this September. Jackie will go into first grade at Beechview Elementary this fall.

Susan Slesman has a contented 4-month-old daughter, Ellen, as she sings along to the Woody Guthrie folk song "This Land is Your Land."
