Bank sets art competition

The Bank of Commerce is inviting Michigan artists to enter its sixth art competition.

As in the preceding competitions, Heritage '89 is open to artists 18 years of age or older. Heritage '89 welcomes works in two dimensional media submitted by Friday, Oct. 20.

"Once again we are asking our artists to reflect on our state's ethnic roots and heritage," said David J. Harris, Bank of Commerce president. "We are proud to continue this unique and productive program that has attracted and benefited so many fine Michigan artists."

The bank has acquired more than 30 artworks in the five previous contests started in 1981 and displays them in several branch offices.

The five most popular paintings were reproduced as lithographs and have been offered to the public since 1987.

In Heritage '89, a process of slide review will be used to select 40 works, which will then be evaluated in their original form.

Eighteen finalists will be chosen and invited to the opening reception of two, monthlong exhibits. The first, on Nov. 20, will be at the bank's main office in Hamtramck, followed by an exhibit in the Warren City Hall opening on Jan. 8.

The competition attracts hundreds of entries from all parts of Michigan. The bank will announce the six winners, to be purchased for up to $1,200 each and added to its collection, at the first opening reception.

"Based on previous experience," Harris said, "it is likely that several other finalists works will be purchased by collectors who see them at the exhibit."

The jurors will be Mary M. Denison, board member of the Detroit Institute of Arts and Cranbrook Academy of Art, Craig Carver, individual artist coordinator, Michigan Council for the Arts and Lawrence A. Heape, Bank of Commerce, director and art collector.

For entry information, contact Bank of Commerce at 757-1030 or 24734 Van Dyke, Center Line, 48015.
