

Concerned Citizens host dinner

Concerned Citizens for the Arts in Michigan (CCAM) will host its fifth annual Governor's Arts Awards dinner at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn on Monday, Nov. 13.

"This year's ceremony will be bigger and better than ever," said Judith Dow Alexander, CCAM's arts awards committee chairwoman.

A statewide committee of 12 people reviewed nominations and recently selected individuals and organizations to receive CCAM's 1989 Governor's Arts Awards.

The winners are: Michigan Artist Award - Charles McGee, painter/sculptor; Detroit Civic Leader Award - Paul Ganson, a musician and civic leader of Dearborn; Business Honor Roll Award - Steelcase Inc., Grand Rapids; Arts in Education Award - Cledia Taylor, teacher; and Media Honor Roll Detroit; and Media Honor Roll

Arts Organization Awards will be presented to Bay de Noc Indian Culture Association, Gladstone; Performing Arts Department, Detroit Institute of Arts; and Muskegon Museum of Art. The International Achievement Award recipient will be announced in September.

CCAM is a not-for-profit organization formed in 1983 expressly to be the advocate for the arts. CCAM activities and programs are focused on one goal: to raise the awareness level and to increase support for the arts in Michigan among individuals, corporations, foundations and government.

Tickets for the Governor's Arts Awards dinner and ceremony are $150 per person, $1,500 for a table of 10. For information about the Governor's Arts Awards Dinner or Concerned Citizens for the Arts in Michigan, contact CCAM offices 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. 981-1778. CCAM is at Music Hall, 350 Madison Avenue, Suite 503, Detroit, MI 48226.

Visit Victorian era

Visiting the world of a Victorian family is a treat that can be enjoyed this summer at the Troy Historical Museum. "A Horticultural Extravaganza of the Victorian Era" is featured from now through Sept. 1 in the Museum, 60 W. Wattle Road (17 Mile) at Livernois.

Exhibit hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 1-5 p.m. Sunday. General admission is free.

The American Industrial Revolution brought affluence and leisure time to a growing middle class during the Victorian era. Many Americans fled the crowded cities to develop suburban estates where they could live in closer proximity to nature. From elegant gardens to hair wreaths and dried flowers, our exhibit explores the sweeping popularity of rediscovering nature both inside and outside the home.

From vines woven into the backs of wicker chairs to floral designs in carpets, lace curtains, clothing, and accessories, nature became an integral part of Victorian life.

This exhibit is made possible in part by donations from the Troy Garden Club and the Troy Museum Guild. For additional information, please call the museum at 524-3570.
