It doesn't happen too often that a legislative body can hold a public meeting without a public, but that was the case when the Farmington City Council met Monday night.

The audience consisted of two members of the press and a city planning commissioner, Jim Platt. Otherwise, the council chambers were occupied by only councilmen and city administrators.

Not a single resident, excluding the above mentioned, was present. Even the developers were absent. It was a lonely night for all as councilmen had only each other to talk with.

In fact, it was a lonely night all around. Some councilmen may have shared my plight of driving home on empty streets illuminated by only a half-moon.

THE SCHOOL BOARD fared a little better with about 30 in the audience for the study session on implementing substance abuse studies into the curriculum of Farmington public schools.

Substance abuse has drawn attention because of the tragic results heaped upon many young persons who abuse drugs. But the substance abuse proposals suggest that the schools not only the advice of parents and faculty. Hopefully, once a specific plan is drawn; released and debated, the program implemented.

The third major curriculum area being studied by the board and administration is minority understanding, certainly a worthwhile addition.

Today's column will be concluded with a comment on minority understanding made many months ago. A sociology class on minority understanding may be needed and, without a doubt, we all need to exercise more understanding towards minority groups.

But minorities must not, and should not, be isolated from history and literature classes. The Negro, Mexican, Catholic and Quaker all played important roles in our history and literature and should remain integrated into the instruction on these two areas.

I understand that the intent is not to isolate minorities from general history or literature texts but to seek better understanding by providing further emphasis. This is good.

THE SCHOOL BOARD will be making important decisions in the next few months. Citizen support, concern and involvement are needed.

There has been a certain repetition in those who appear before the school board to object to either human sexuality, minority understanding or substance abuse instruction. That they appear shows a real concern and this, too, is good.

But has the voice of the average parent been heard? Write a letter or, better yet, attend a school board meeting. It's your child, not mine.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Howell of Quail Hollow are proud parents. Why? Because daughter Kathy made dean's list at Western Michigan University and is doing her student teaching in special education at Woodville.

Kathy does not have a transportation problem because the school is walking distance from her home.

Of late, my phone has been ringing with unusual calls such as reports about skiing areas, what can one do about pornography, our bad roads and dogs running loose. Here's what can be done about the dogs in K-I, K-II, K-III, Westbroke.

You may recall the recent search for the dog that bit Kurt Manette. All one has to do is call the wedding police and report the owner, and they in turn receive a warning. On the second complaint, a ticket is issued to the owners. Dog lovers, please keep your animals at home. And how about the paper boys who are trying to get their work done and come home with dog bites because Fido has been spanked with a rolled newspaper. We have had two such experiences of late. Never too late to make that resolution to keep your pet indoors and in his own yard.

CONGRATULATIONS are in order for Mr. and Mrs. Harold Liestikow of Bayberry who last Thursday celebrated their wedding anniversary and then on Sunday last Mrs. Dee Liestikow had a birthday.

Good news for the Bernie Goetzke family of Peppercorn who had a glorious weekend at Burt Lake. The family took a belated holiday because Mr. Goetzke was ill during Christmas and was in Beaumont Hospital.

Kandahar Ski Club is getting more popular every year. It is a private ski club plus it has a ski jump a bit larger than Henry Hall's jump at Inkster and Nine Mile. We had a call from Hall's wife and she reports he will be on "What My Line?" in shape, he ice skates daily.

Back to that sport of skiing. The Ed Benda family belong to Kandahar because five out of nine in their family jump. Last weekend Benda drove the family of jumpers to Briar Hill just outside of Cadillac for more practice. Gordon Rowe and one Steve did some jumping on the hill. Tomorrow this bunch will be competing in a meet in that sport which takes a lot of skill, practice and guts. Good Luck to all.

MORE ON SKIERS. Some of the gals in the area take advantage of Ladies Day and not only pay less for towes at Alpine but don't have to fight the crowds. Last Tuesday, Jan. Salsbury, Cynthia Lawrence and Alice Scott enjoyed the facilities at that area. Wednesday is Ladies' Day at Pine Knob.

Services for Henry A. Otis, retired Farmington service station owner for over 30 years, were conducted recently in Sarasota, Fla. Henry, who was 90 years old, died two weeks ago in Sarasota Memorial Hospital.

He had sold his home on Hillcrest Dr. and also his business property to the Federal Reserve Store on Grand River at Grove Street. His first wife, the late Gladys Landesman Otis, taught in the Farmington public schools.

He was the son of the late Amos and Hattie Otis, one of the oldest families here. He was a World War II veteran and a member of American Legion Post 36 in Farmington. He attended both the St. John's and Culver military academies.

DAVID FOSTER, after his military discharge, spent several months traveling in Asia, visiting homes of the people.

He has many interesting commentaries on the way of life of people in Thailand, Burma and Cambodia. David returned to San Francisco where he met his brother, Mark, who attends San Francisco Theological Seminary. Mark lives in Berkeley and attends classes at University of California.

Both young men returned home in time for the holiday where they were joined by a third brother, Barton who is attending Northern Michigan University. They are the sons of Mrs. Joyce Foster of Floral Park, Farmington.

MRS. C.L. HOMMEL of Detroit and Mr. and Mrs. William Quackenbush of Royal Oak were entertained on the weekend in the home of Mrs. Frank J. Flood of Farmington.

Arnold Henke of Power Rd. is hospitalized in Highland General Hospital where he underwent surgery Jan. 14. Mrs. Henke reports he is doing satisfactory. The Henkes are both members of the Farmington Senior Citizens Social Club and the Farmington Drop-in Center.

Mrs. Gladys Bell of Grand River has been moved from Pontiac General Hospital to Oakland County Hospital. Her son Ron describes her condition as critical. Mrs. Bell operated a rooming house for over 30 years on Grand River.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Detten-thaler, formerly of Freedom Rd., have moved back to their former hometown, Wyandotte, which they missed very much.

TRACY LYNN KARP had the misfortune of breaking her collarbone Saturday evening while sledding. Tracy was taken to Botsford General Hospital where the bone was set. Tracy is the daughter of Skip and Carol Karp of Normandy Hills.

Mrs. Angeline Long of Wildwood underwent surgery in Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital Jan. 15. She is in Room 3339 and is the daughter-in-law of "yours truly."

Mrs. Alice Zakian of Wilmarth St. is presently hospitalized in Sinai Hospital, Detroit, after a fall.

V.O. Bates is now in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Sylvia Johnson of Marysville, after being hospitalized one month in Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Snodgrass of 28209 Danver Dr., Farmington, have returned home following a trip out west which included a stop at Del Webb's resort-retirement community in Sun City, Ariz.

TWO FARMINGTON couples were among a group which took a cruise on the newest vessel in the fleet of Norwegian Caribbean Lines, the M/S Skyward. The cruiser was chartered recently for some 1,500 employees of Detroit Diesel Allison Division of GM.

Stops included such ports as Barbados, Martinique, San Juan and St. Thomas. Farmington residents making the sales incentive cruise were Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Ashbaugh and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ekley.

Fishing in the Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament, recently Orville Weir Jr. of 26574 Greythorne, Farmington, won angling recognition when he caught a 19-pound jack in the light tackle division.
