Center marks 20th year

Editor's note: For 20 years the doors of The Community Center have been kept open through the work of men and women who volunteer to serve as its directors. The Farmington Observer introduces the members of the 1989 board to readers as part of the center's 20th anniversary year observance.

Steve Faine

Hills last year. He wants the center to culturally enrich the community through public responsive programming.

Faine is a member of the community center's finance committee and believes his involvement with the renovation of the facility is his greatest contribution to the center to date.

Botsford Hospital administrator of Professional and Support Services Steve Faine and his wife Karen are lifelong Farmington area residents and share a commitment to civic involvement.

Besides participating in numerous hospital related organizations, he is a member of the Rotary Club, the Farmington Hills Beautification Commission, the Council of Community Resources and the Task Force for Affordable Housing for Seniors.

His belief that there is a definite need for an accessible cultural center in this area caused the 42-year-old to accept an appointment to the board of directors of The Community Center Farmington-Farmington

Classic fairy tale performed Dec. 6

A princess and magic spells will be mixed with music and comedy in a performance of the classic tale "The Frog Prince" at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 6, in The Community Center Farmington-Farmington Hills.

Performed by the Ann Arbor Goodtime Players, the musical comedy will enchant the audience as a spoiled princess changes her ways because of a frog -- who is actually a prince. The performance will convey the message that to make a friend, you must be a friend.

The four-member Goodtime Players cast will be joined by three budding actors from the Farmington-Farmington Hills area.

Tickets are $4 per person or $12 per family. Following the show, there will be a treat for everyone.

For tickets call The Community Center at 477-8404.
