famous elephant looking for Father Christmas," Noel a Paris," sights of the French capital at Christmastime, or "Christmas in Spain," chronicling the celebrations in Madrid, which include ceremonies at La Puerta del Sol and the Three Kings Cavalcade. Prices range from about $40 to $50.

• Clear Motives. "Go-Go Gears"

from Playskool shows kids how gears mesh and turn in a collection of toy cars, trucks, planes or trains with transparent plastic casings and brightly colored moving parts. And each vehicle comes with its own driver or pilot. When the child presses the driver down into his seat, the vehicle moves forward. The "Go-Go" sets come in a small (about $61), medium ($10) and large ($15) assortments.

• From Lewis Galoob Toys' Micro Machines, a series of small cars, boats, planes, trains and trucks; there are 195 new ones in the 1989 collection. Galoob goes small with dolls, too. So Small Babies.

• Tupperware from Tupperware adds four new toys: Link-a-Lot, linkable toys in different rainbow-colored shapes; What's Inside, puzzle pieces of numbers of colors; Lift Tupper characters fit in various settings, including a merry-go-round and a school bus; Totem-Pails, a stacking toy.

• New from Playskool are Busy Beads, with the largest version featuring Sesame Street characters, and Dressing Pretty, with six different dress-up play outfits. Bead sets range from about $40 to $37, and costumes begin at about $15, available in one size that fits 3 to 6.

• Trusty is a shaggy-haired doll which comes with a backpack holding a story book, "Trusty Found," a pillow and a note pad. Created by Duane Benton, it has pocket ears to "hear" a child's secrets and is designed to help teach children problem-solving and self-reliance, according to the Trusty Doll Co., Kansas City, Mo.

• Mattel adds an electronic Powerword to its He-Man character line. The battery-operated sword, which also lights up, produces varying sounds depending on the hand motion.
