

Irish population to swell for St. Paddy's Day

The inn will be filled with wild green shamrocks sent directly from Ireland.

"IT'S THE biggest day of the year for all bar owners," agreed Marty Burke, co-owner of Dunleavy's Pub & Grill, 34505 Grand River in Farmington. "St. Patrick's Day is even bigger than New Year's Eve."

Dunleavy's, 34505 Grand River, will hold its annual St. Paddy sing-alongs and will make sure the floor is clear for Irish step dancers.

"We have a lot of Irish people who come in once a year and dance their brains out," Burke said. "But then, of course, everyone is Irish on St. Paddy's Day."

Jack Dunleavy, pub co-owner, is part of the Irish clan that has made a lasting mark on the Detroit-area tavern business. Last Sunday, Tom Dunleavy, leader of the clan and uncle to Jack, led the 32nd Detroit St. Patrick's Parade down Michigan Avenue as grand marshal.

Tom Dunleavy, an Allen Park resident, is a native of County Mayo, Ireland. His son, Brendan of Farmington, is state vice president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in Michigan, an Irish organization.

Mike Sullivan of Farmington Hills chaired this year's Detroit St. Patrick's Parade. Dunleavy's pubs in Allen Park, Detroit and Farmington sponsored the Corktown Races preceding the parade. Race proceeds went to aid food programs at the St. Patrick's parish in the Cass Corridor.

THIS FRIDAY, Dearborn-based

WNIC-FM radio will present the Harper and Gannon morning show live from Dunleavy's Pub & Grill. The show will run 6-10 a.m. and is open to the public. Coffee and doughnuts will be served.

Vito Pacelli, manager at Clancy's Bar & Grill, 32350 Eight Mile in Farmington Hills, knows how to prepare for the big day. "You don't have to do anything special on St. Patrick's Day, really. Just open up," he said.

Clancy's will prepare corned beef and cabbage plates and everybody's favorite, Irish stew, he added.

O'Sheehan's Tavern & Eatery, 35450 Grand River in Farmington Hills, will include all the Irish specialties on its Saturday menu. A hearty corned beef sandwich and lots of green beer and Irish coffee are expected to keep diners' Irish eyes smiling.

Of course, there's more to do than eat and drink on St. Patrick's Day. Donovan's Country Store, 33355 Grand River in Farmington's Village Mall, will be busy selling Irish lace, fine jewelry, woolens, music and imported jams and cookies.

Last Saturday, Donovan's featured an open house, with Celtic harpists. The strings played lullabies for a bit of Irish culture. The open house was organized to collect canned goods to be donated to the Capuchin soup kitchen in Detroit, said Peggy Donovan, store owner.

Police start hotline for drug tips

The Farmington Hills Police Department has started a Drug Tip Hotline, Chief William Dwyer announced Monday.

The purpose of the hotline is to provide the community a secure method of reporting information concerning criminal activity.

This information may concern possible drug houses, chop shops or individuals who may be responsible for crimes already committed or about to be committed.

THE COMMUNITY is still urged to continue dialing 9-1-1 when reporting crimes in progress, Dwyer said.

The department's Drug Tip Hotline number is 473-9899.

The line will be answered on a 24-hour basis seven days a week.

to deliver less than 50 grams of heroin, a felony, and possession of marijuana, a misdemeanor.

He wasn't arraigned locally because federal drug charges were pending. "In light of the federal charges, we're not going to pursue the local charges," Monti said.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Joseph Allen is prosecuting the federal case. Wakefield has asked to represent himself in court, Monti said.

In 1988, Wakefield was released from federal prison after serving 10 years of a 15-year sentence for a 1978 drug conviction in U.S. District Court in Detroit. The offense was conspiracy to smuggle heroin. Police believe he imported the drug from Thailand, Monti said.
