

Renovation planned for 2 local cable studios

Community Access Television of Farmington, Farmington Hills and Novi will be involved with the renovation of two sites throughout 1990. At this time, MetroVision is renovating its original office and production studio area. It has moved some of their offices into a new building next door. It is reorganizing 3700 Enterprise Court, to also handle increased volume of activity.

Our MetroVision production staff is still smiling and of good humor as they do double time to keep the dust off the equipment.

On March 26, the Farmington Hills City Council accepted an offer by the Southwestern Oakland Cable Commission to buy first station 1 on Research Drive. A new fire station to replace it is scheduled to be completed sometime this summer.

At this time, the cable commission will take occupancy and renovate the building into a community and government access television studio.

Classes and small productions will continue to be held at the community studio housed at MetroVision. Shows requiring more space, more elaborate sets or a sizeable audience will be hosted at the new site.

Southwestern Oakland Cable Commission

The Southwestern Oakland Cable Commission administrative offices and staff will be housed in the new location. Weather permitting, the renovation which is primarily interior work should be completed in the fall of this year.

The rules and procedures will follow the standard which has been established by the cable commission. Staff rules as they pertain to advising, teaching, registration and outreach will remain the same. All residents and staff will be welcome at both sites.
