Scriptwriter works on film about teenage ninja turtles

went to California in 1983 to work for Hughes Aircraft. Once there, he soon envied what his life might be in 40 years or so, working as an engineer. The thought did not please him. During his spare time, he began writing a screenplay for a movie. "I felt that writing was the best way to get started in the entertainment business," Langen remembered. "I just sat down after work over the course of the summer. I'd just take an old packing box from moving out here and put it on the bed every night with a little intensely lamp and just write on loose-leaf paper."

Langen's first produced script for the movies is not that script. Instead it's "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles." "I don't know how the movie's going to play as far as the public's concerned, but it's been a very good experience for me," he said.
