One thing for certain: Oakland University's basketball teams will have a new look next season. They'll have to. Both have lost four starters.

They'll have to. Both have lost four starters.
First the men, who have six new-comers already signed to make up for the loss of eight members from last year's team. The newest recruit is Phil Johnson, who was Inked Wednesday, and he is expected to contribute immediately.
Another highly-regarded prospect was on the verge of signing Wednesday, but has delayed. Anthony Soule, a 6-foot-6, 185-pound forward who played at South Florida Community College last season and led all Florida JGs in scoring, averaging 24 points (and eight rebounds), would provide immediate help.
