Heart for art

Several area women are among the 583-member volunteer committee of the Founders Society, Detroit Institute of Arts, now starting its 28th year of dedication to the museum. This group gave 67,066 hours of service during the 1988-89 year. Included on the 50-member board of directors are Rosemary Harm (left), Southfield, Art to the Schools chairman; Leah Drachler, Southfield, public relations; Betty Shaffer, Farmington, historian; Elaine Gunderson, Farmington, Art and Flowers. Others, not pictured, include: Allison Robertson, Southfield, annual meeting; Delphine Sheridan, Orchard Lake, vice chairman, personnel placement; Dody Well, Orchard Lake, enrichment; Cyvia Snyder, West Bloomfield, trip; Arlene Kimble, Livonia, welcome. Volunteers donate their time and talent on eight separate service committees. Among them are presenting docent-guided tours in the museum to the public and school groups. Others do such tasks as coordinate mailings, staff the museum gift shop, assist visitors at information desks and in the galleries.
