Committee Saturday in the Downtown Farmington Center.

Research director honored

Teh-Tsing Tchen of Farmington Hills will receive the 1990 Distinguished Graduate Faculty Award at Wayne State University's commencement ceremonies Thursday, May 3, at Cobo Hall, Detroit.

During Tchen's 31 years at Wayne State, he has directed the research of 30 doctoral students and 15 master's students to the successful completion of their degrees.

His impressive publication record includes more than 100 research publications and 24 chapters in biochemistry.

Tchen has served on all departmental committees during his tenure at Wayne State. He has also been a member of several university committees including the University Council, Liberal Arts College Council and numerous search committees.

Tchen has presented papers on chemistry and biochemistry at numerous national and international meetings.

He is an editorial board member of the "Journal of Biological Chemistry," "Archives of Biochemistry" and "Biophysics and Endocrine Research Communications." He also serves on several committees of professional organizations.

Tchen received his doctorate in biochemistry from the University of Chicago in 1954.

According to Richard L. Lintvedt, WSU chemistry department chairman, this year's award winner is "dedicated to graduate education and research and has made an important contribution to the evolution of the department of chemistry from an emerging graduate program to one that is recognized as being among the leaders in the country."

Lintvedt says that extramural funding is an important aspect of the record of a faculty member in the natural sciences deserving of the title Distinguished Graduate Faculty.

"Professor Tchen has a superior record of continuous extramural funding extending over many years. I dare say there are few people within the university who could match his record of extramural funding over such an extended period of time.
