The Schoolcraft College men's basketball team got out of the starting blocks like Carl Lewis Wednesday, opening up leads of 14-0 and 22-1 en route to their third straight victory without a loss, a 109-69 triumph over host Glen Oaks Community College.

Despite the absence of two key players, Charlie Perkins and Randy Watters (both out with injuries), the Occiots came out smoking, nailing 11 of their first 13 shots from the floor.

"It was beautiful to watch," said Schoolcraft coach Dave Bogataj. "Everything fell. The kids played flawless, just a great game."

Kwesi McGill, a 6-foot-4 forward from Detroit St. Hedwig, scored 15 of SC's first 17 points. He finished with a game-high 31.

Barry Quayle, a 6-6 forward from Dearborn Fordson, and Mitch Fyke, a 6-2 forward from Plymouth Can-ton, each chipped in with 19.

ton, each compect in what is.

Dave Hamilton, a 6-6 product from Taylor Center, scored all 14 of his points in the second half as SC out-pointed Gien Oaks, 63-34. (Hamilton also grabbed nine rebounds.)

SC held Glen Oaks to only one field goal during the final seven minutes.

Lynell Collins, a 6-3 point-guard from Southfield, was also instrumen-tal in the win. He grabbed seven first-half rebounds as the Ocelots held a 39-21 edge for the game.

Frederick Ferguson, a 6-9 center rom Cleveland, Ohio, paced Glen Piymouth Salem's greatest asset as the reparts for the next stage of the girls basketball tournament is its solid team play.

The Rocks gave another line all-round performance Wednesday while crushing Monroe 70-48 and winning its first regional champion-ship in three years.

"I thought our balance, depth and ability to go to a lot of different spots on the floor to score was the difference in the game," Salem coach Fred Thomann said. "The fact was the stage of the stag eck.

"I know they've won a lot of close "I know they've won a lot of close games and play very well together." Thomann said. "They have a good left-handed shooter and greet ball ance. All of their players score six to eight points a game."

THE ROCKS took control of their game late in the first quarter and combined sound defense, good ball movement and superior shooting to dominate Monroe.

Senlor guard Beisy McAillister had her best scoring game since getting 19 points in the season opener, tossing in 16 to lead the Rocks.

Junior center Darcle Miller followed with 14 points, and senlor

Batter of the second period, giving CCa 2-0 lead.

"I was real happy with the way our team played," CC coach John Gumbleton said. "We did some good things out there."

Hubenschmidt, who assisted on Schloss' goal, found an opening just 54 seconds into the third period. Senior forward Matt Keenan drew an assist.

"I think our offerse did a good job of going around their defense," Hubenschmidt said. "They were a little slower than us."

Keenan tucked the puck through Williams' pads at the 10:37 mark of the final period, giving CC a commanding 4-0 lead.

SOPHOMORE FORWARD Victor Stesiak capped off the Shamrock scorling when he back handed a loose puck into the Spartan goal.
