New cable show will delve into local history

Kay Briggs reports to us that the Farmington Historical Commission and the Farmington Hills Historical and the Parmington Hills Historical Commission are cooperating to bring to the Channel 12 audience a new series of programs, called "Farmington's Past, Persons and Places." The first several programs will be an overview of the various government commissions to include their historical significance. An example of the historical aspect is the story of the antique quilt which is hanging in the hallway of the Farmington Hills City Hall, Botsford Inn and the Warner Museum.

The programs will be scheduled twice a week, day and evening times. Other programs will introduce folks who are important to the development of the Farmington Area. Video footage will document for your viewing pleasure visits to various historical homes.

Jean Fox, our eminent local histo-ian will be hostess of the series. Judy Antishian and Kay Briggs will be host alternates.

A human ring circling the First Baptist Church's sanctuary Monday night linked Christians, Jews and Moslems in prayer for peace and un-derstanding during a time of war. Prayers were offered in English, Polish, Hebrew and Arabie at a spe-cial service Monday night. Though the languages and faiths differed, the common bond was a desire for an end to war.

an end to war.

The group prayers, which closed the hour-long service, began in quiet meditation. The only sound was the
