artfully decorated evening bags, jewelry boxes, hair ornaments, and unusual gift possibilities. Many are, or will be, collector's pieces.

Jeanne Cohen, store manager, says the nice thing about Cec's is that brides' attendants can be given gifts that they wear during the ceremony and keep thereafter.

"Since so many brides care about a uniform look, they often want to select the same earrings or barrette for all attendants," she said. "We very frequently custom make earrings for a bride and a complementing earring to be worn by each of her bridesmaids."

Cohen points out fresh water pearls that are often fashioned into a contemporary looking spray. "It's beautiful but not overpowering. We compare some of the same pearls for a dozen for her attendants."

"Decorative Victorian" or "Contemporary" brides can all be accommodated at Cec's, says Cohen, because the choice of the materials to work with is enormous.

We have black and clear crystal, ivory, champagne stones, just to mention some of them. She said. "A lot of brides and brides are coordinating in black, not white, weddings and the crystals and rhinestones, in great accents for them."

If a non-jewelry item is preferred, Cec's has choices in all price ranges. There are feminine boudoir accessories, as well as fabric covered jewelry and music boxes. Hand-held, purse-sized mirrors crafted from mother of pearl, lacquer and silver are as fabulous as are notepads and an address book with clear acrylic covers.

"The cosmetic brush sets are popular," Cohen said. "They come in a velvet pouch, perfect for travel."

Also on hand, for a selection of perfume bottles, in a variety of media, such as frosted glass or beaded design.

BY TRADITION, bridesmaids are meant to have the same fuss made over them, but that isn't so when it comes to the bridesmaid's gift for participating in the wedding.

Helping to create the bride's dream is the bride's responsibility. Whether the bride is a traditional or a contemporary bride, Cec's has the gifts to help her create the perfect wedding.
