

Botsford starts huge expansion

Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills will break ground Tuesday on a three-phase, $30-million expansion and renovation project that officials say will enable the hospital to better serve the community.

A groundbreaking ceremony is scheduled 11 a.m. Tuesday, May 14, on the hospital grounds, 28050 Grand River, to mark the beginning of the four-year project.

Plans allow for the expansion of several hospital areas including ambulatory surgery, inpatient surgery, emergency medicine and the laboratory, as well as the renovation of its maternity and dietary departments. No inpatient beds will be added.

Construction on the first phase of the project, called the West Project, will begin later this month. It will include a three-story addition featuring a new special procedures area and ambulatory surgery.

Each floor is designed to connect the professional building with the main hospital.

THE EAST PROJECT, the second phase, is a three-level structure located between the existing patient towers and the Administration and Education Center. The first floor will house the emergency department and inpatient surgical suites.

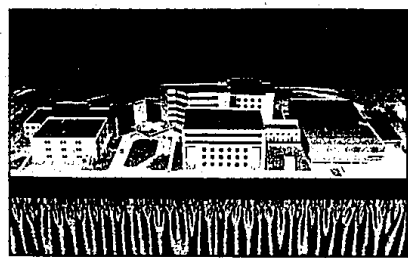

When complete, the emergency department will nearly triple in size and double the number of patient treatment areas from 13 to 26. These areas will include trauma and resuscitation examination room, and urgent care treatment rooms.

In 1990, Botsford's emergency department had 30,010 patient visits and expects 32,000 visits in 1991. The new facility is designed to accommodate 40,000 patient visits yearly.

"With the increasing number of cases being handled by the emergency department, we felt that a simple renovation would quickly be outgrown," said Peg Reimer, vice president of planning, marketing and corporate development.

"A new, larger facility is the best way to ensure that patients would receive the finest emergency care available."

Construction on the East Project is expected to begin this fall. Completion is expected in the fall of 1993.

pletion is expected in the fall of 1993.

PHASE THREE of the project includes the renovation of the maternity and dietary departments. The maternity unit will be expanded, and traditional delivery rooms will be converted to labor, delivery and recovery rooms.

Renovation is expected to begin in late 1993 and is scheduled for completion by early 1995.

"By undertaking such a major expansion and renovation project, Botsford will be able to meet the demands that will be facing the hospital and health care in general in the next century," Reimer added.

"It is something we must do to be responsive to the community that has supported us for so many years."

Botsford will finance the $30 million project with funds raised through a capital campaign, existing funds and the issuance of bonds.

Botsford is a 336-bed osteopathic teaching hospital serving Farmington Hills and surrounding communities. It is affiliated with the Michigan State University College of Osteopathic Medicine.

Hospital has grown, expanded services

Here are some facts about Botsford General Hospital on Grand River near Eight Mile in Farmington Hills.

- Botsford General Hospital is a 336-bed osteopathic health care facility serving the Farmington area and surrounding communities. It is named after Milton C. Botsford, who owned the land in the last century.

- A teaching facility, Botsford trains more than 30 interns and 60 residents in 16 specialties and subspecialties each year.

- Botsford General Hospital is an affiliate of the Ziegler Health Care Corporation. Other corporate affiliates include Community Emergency Medical Services and Farmington Nursing Home.

- Founded by Dr. Allen Ziegler as Ziegler Osteopathic Hospital, the original facility opened in 1944 in Detroit.

- In 1965, Botsford expanded and moved to its present location in Farmington Hills. The land was purchased from John Anhalt, owner of the nearby Botsford Inn.

In 1977, Botsford added an ambulatory care professional building to meet the needs of the community.

- In 1981, Botsford acquired and renovated Edgewood School for its Administration and Education Building.

- In 1987, Botsford added two new patient care areas, renovated two nursing units to accommodate rehabilitation facilities and a geropsychiatric unit, and opened the South Professional Office Building.

- In 1988, Botsford expanded its emergency department to accommodate patients. An urgent care track was added to handle minor injuries and illnesses.

- In 1988, Botsford opened the Total Rehabilitation and Athletic Conditioning Center (TRIACC) in Novi. TRIACC offers comprehensive rehabilitation programs in athletic medicine, occupational medicine and occupational and physical therapy.

- In 1991, Botsford General Hospital embarked on a three-phase $30 million dollar expansion and renovation program to enhance inpatient and campus-based outpatient services. Plans include the addition of a 13,000 square foot emergency department and expanded ambulatory surgery and inpatient surgery areas.

- ElderMed at Botsford is a free lifetime membership program for adults aged 50 and over. Members receive discounts on a variety of hospital and community services, and monthly lectures provide seniors the opportunity to discuss various health topics.

- Health Development Network offers a complete range of community health promotion programs and activities such as seminars on diabetes, back care and weight management.

- HealthMatch physician referral uses a sophisticated computer program to match health care needs with an appropriate physician.

Valuation revenue targeted by Hills

City manager William Costick calls the proposed budget a "hold-the-line" budget.

"With the property tax reform proposed for 1992, we just don't know what will happen. We can't afford to take on any new projects," Costick said. "I think fiscally Farmington Hills is in good shape. We can get by, and we are getting by."

LIKE EVERYBODY else, the city is faced with inflation of 5.2 percent. The new budget is a 3 percent increase in expenditures over this year's approved budget of $27.8 million.

The proposed budget represents $620,000 in cuts from what department heads requested for the new budget year. "I decided what would it take to balance this budget. That's where those cuts came from," Costick said.

That's why the $333,000 — the 1.8 percent increase — is needed. "It would be quite a challenge to cut $333,000 without cutting services that residents are accustomed to," Rosch said.

CITY REVENUES, Rosch and Costick said, are down from the current budget year. Building permits — which provide revenue for the city — declined 25 percent from 1990 to 1991. In the current 1990-91 budget, revenues from building permits were projected at $986,000. The city probably will get less, $908,000. In 1991-92, the city is expected to get $747,000 from building permits.

Few changes are in store for the 1991-92 budget. Salary increases for union employees are targeted at 4 percent, as are salary increases for non-union department heads, Costick said.

Refuse collection continues to take a spotlight in the city budget. In 1991-92, $2.2 million has been budgeted for garbage. That's compared to $2.18 million budgeted in the current budget year.

But there's more. With the start of curbside recycling and composting July 1, owners of single-family houses and condominium owners will pay a $13.50 quarterly fee or $54 annually for the program. That fee includes the deposit cost of new recycling bins that will be given to each homeowner or condominium owner.

Farmington, 2 police unions agree on pacts

After six months of working with a state mediator, unions representing Farmington public safety officers and commanders have reached a contract agreement with the city.

Both unions have ratified the contracts and the city council voted to approve them Monday.

The two affiliate unions of the Police Officers' Association of Michigan, which represents some 20 members of the departments, negotiated separately for the two contracts which expired in June 1990. Both the Farmington Police Officers Association and the Command Officers Association requested mediation last November.

year pacts include:

- Wage increases of 4.25 percent in the first two years and 4.75 percent in the contract's third year. Under the previous contract, officers earned between $22,486 and $35,667 depending on rank and years of service.

- Limiting the number of staff which can be scheduled off duty during the peak workloads on Friday and Saturday.

- A change to a preferred provider option health insurance plan, which was a cost containment measure sought by the city.

- Additional vacation days at 11 and 20 years of service, increases in uniform allowance and retirement benefit changes.

HAND SURGERY IN RHEUMATOID ARTHRITIS

It is not how the hand looks, but how it works. You need your hand to grip and grasp. The hand allows you to enter and exit a shower safely, button your shirt, use a knife and bring a spoon to your mouth. You need your hand to undertake toilet hygiene, you may need your hand to walk if you require a walker or cane. If you are able to undertake these functions, it is unlikely a hand surgeon will urge operation, no matter what your hand looks like. Hand operations can decrease pain, but in return the surgeon will place your fingers in a position of limited movement. If your hands are deformed with accompanying impairment, then you obtain a double gain: less discomfort and improved function. There is a chance that surgery will fail no matter how experienced or skillful the surgeon. Therefore you should wait upon operation until your hand function reaches a point that you would be no worse even if surgical intervention fails. It may appear that rheumatologists or orthopedists, who should know better, are ignoring hands that are gnarled and swollen. The reluctance to recommend surgery comes from understanding that it is function, not form, that drives treatment.

Hills firemen have role in EMS exhibit

The Farmington Hills fire department will participate in the 1991 Oakland County EMS Exhibit from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday, May 14, at the Southfield Civic Center.

The event will draw Oakland County's fire departments, hospitals, ambulance companies, and other emergency medical services agencies. The event is scheduled during Emergency Medical Services Week.

Sponsored by the American College of Emergency Physicians, the week is set aside to encourage the public to learn more about the emergency medical resources in their communities and to recognize the emergency medical services provided by emergency medical professionals.

The Farmington Hills fire department will have its clown troupe on hand and firefighters will participate in a number of child fire safety houses that will be set up for the event.

Visitors to the event will see ambulances and fire trucks, see a seat-belt display, learn how to use and not abuse the 9-1-1 emergency system, meet Plugge the fire hydrant robot and get bandaged at the "Kids Boo Boo Booth," which will feature Yogi and Boo Boo bears.
