

BCAM selects area talent

League rivals, and Marian defeated Mercy four times last year, the last in a regional tournament game.

"It's been a while since the season ended," Walton said. "We've always been friends, and the rivalry just made it fun."

"I've always respected her. She's was a great leader for her team. That's one reason her team was always successful against us, because she never lets down and that helps on the court."

Walton didn't receive any scholarship offers but plans to attend Marquette University and possibly try to make the team as a walk-on. Former Mercy teammate Jenny Clinton is a scholarship player at Marquette.

Walton hopes to use the all-star game to show what she can do.

"MARKITA, EVE and Trina got scholarships to good schools," she said. "I've been working out and staying in shape. I just want to be able to keep up with the rest of them."

Walton, playing small forward, averaged 11 points last year and had 102 steals to break Clinton's single-season school record. She also averaged five rebounds and 3 1/2 steals.

"My strong suit has always been defense, and I've always been able to get a few steals," she said. "If I do, the rest of (her game) usually falls into place. So I'll start out trying to play good defense."

Ruete, who led the Rocks to the Class A semifinals and a 22-4 record, will be playing opposite the rest of the area players as a member of the White team.

"I have a feeling I'll know a lot of people there," she said. "I'll probably know a lot of girls, and I'm used to playing against (the other area players). I don't feel segregated at all."

"I'M REALLY proud that I was selected" for the all-star game," she said. "As for playing in the game, I want to be able to hold my own and show everyone I can play a high caliber of basketball.

"When I've played lately, I've resorted more to passing, rebounding and ball handling, but if I have the shot I won't pass it up."

The 6-foot-5 Baker, who signed early with CMU, will be reunited with Detroit Country Day star Chris Webber on the A-Blue team.

As winner of the Mr. Basketball award, Webber will play in the Class A game, though he helped DCD win consecutive 'B' titles. Baker and Webber were teammates on the Detroit Superfriends AAU team the previous two summers.

baseball

"He's a nice guy and we kid around when we see each other," Baker said. "I like to watch him play and be around him because he's such a good player."

BAKER PLAYED for an Ann Arbor AAU team this year, but it was knocked out of the state tournament. He has been running and practicing with the Salem team to stay in shape for Saturday's game.

Baker averaged 17 points, 10 rebounds, four assists and two blocks in his senior year, finishing as the school's all-time leading rebounder (728) and No. 2 scorer (1,122). Baker's stats were slightly less than the previous year (18 points, 12 rebounds) and the Rocks didn't win a district tournament as expected, leaving the false impression he had a better junior year.

"I think my senior year was better, but it didn't show in scoring and rebounding," he said. "Because we had a good team and other good players, I spread myself out more. I tried to open up things inside for other big guys or play better defense, and that took away from other parts of the game."
