Ship Stabilizer

Seasickness is expected to vanish before a mammoth gyro stabilizer, to be installed in a 30,000-ton American liner. The gyroscope is a large heavy metal disk, which, when revolving at a high rate of speed, offers great resistance to lateral motion. Thus the steamer can steady itself by holding onto the gyroscope, which refuses to swing.

Better Than Vaccination

A scientist in Great Britain claims to have found a way to immunize persons from smallpox and other diseases without vaccination. His system is to fill a room with immunizing vapor, and persons sniffing it through their nostrils will become immune to certain diseases.

Few Able to Resist

Power of Flattery

Sam, the French caricaturist, was talking to an American in Paris about his caricatures of Fanny Ward and Berry Wall.

"Those caricatures weren't cruel," he said, "but they gave offense. Well, well, I suppose we're all like the bank president."

"A bank president was stone deaf. A clerk came to him one day to ask for a raise."

"I'm very glad, sir," the clerk began, "to see that your deafness has entirely disappeared."

"What?" said the president, putting his hand to his ear.

"The clerk repeated his words in a louder tone."

"What?"

"The clerk yelled at the top of his lungs, and the president smiled and pushed a pad and pencil towards him."

"I'm very glad," the clerk wrote, "that your deafness has entirely disappeared."

"Thank you, it has," the president said graciously, after he had read the message. "And now what can I do for you, young man?"

"Three minutes later the clerk walked out with his salary doubled."

Once Mighty Fortress

Now Island of Peace

Helgoland, Germany's former naval base, is an all but forgotten isle of peace. Its 2,500 people live in a manner all their own. They pay no taxes; there is no customs wall. Therefore, living is extremely cheap—except for water. That is dear. There is not a spring or a well on the island and every drop of water has to be brought from the mainland. There are ten horses on the island and almost no dogs and cats—they drink too much water. The chief source of income of much of the population is beach combing. In the tiny harbor small vessels, always under steam, stand waiting to go to the help of some boat in distress. Fishing is the occupation of a few. Although Helgoland has the best winter climate in north Europe visitors go there only in summer. It is planned to erect a first-class gambling casino. The inhabitants live in tiny, toylike houses and have little to do. Their speech is a German-Dutch dialect. An earthly paradise, Helgoland, but doomed! Little by little it is being eaten away by the waves. If one would visit Helgoland he should hasten. Geologists have calculated it has only about 2,000 years more to live.

Found "Taw" Long Lost

J. C. Williams of Higbee, Mo., has his favorite "taw" back after 50 years. While wandering through the woods some fifty years ago Williams lost his taw while shooting at tree trunks and other objects in the woods. A diligent search failed to reveal the lost marble. Recently in chopping down a tree in the woods his ax struck a hard substance. Investigating, Williams found the "taw" imbedded six inches in the tree trunk.

Love Missive Delayed

Mlle. Francoise Belami is now the wife of one of the prominent citizens of the village of St. Etienne, France, but she will not say "what might have been" had a letter from one of her numerous suitors, written September 24, 1905, been delivered on time. Mlle. Belami then lived at Monbrison. The letter was posted at Saint Jean Sloyemieux, ten miles away. The letter arrived just 20 years later.
