Large Floating City
in British Columbia

One of the oldest cities on this continent is Simoon Sound, on the coast of British Columbia, says the Pathfinder Magazine. The entire place is made up of floating dwellings. The chief industry in that section is logging, and most of the work is done on the sides of steep cliffs, where it is almost impossible to build a house.

Then, too, the loggers are continually moving to new sites. So they solve their housing problems by building comfortable dwellings of cedar stakes, similar to shingles, only about twice the size and rougher, on log rafts. The loggers live in these raft houses for many years, towing their homes to new sites for logging.

A number of years ago one enterprising logger tied his raft house up at the place called Simoon

Sound. As the anchorage was good and the location was shelter from wind gales, he started a store.

Gradually other floating dwellings were added until now steamships make regular calls to the port and the government has established a post office there.

The main street of this floating city has all been connected and considerable city beautifying has been done. Flowers have been planted along the way in old canoes and the storekeeper has a garden in an earth-filled boat. In the winter many new floating houses are added to the city, but they float away again when the loggers go back to logging with the return of good weather.

Small Enterprise Liners bring big returns.

Longest Tunnel

The Simplon tunnel, through the Alps, 12½ miles in length, is the longest railroad tunnel in the world.

Electricity for Dogs

One of the latest applications of electricity is in the treatment of dogs for distemper. Exposed to ultra-violet rays for 15 minutes at a time, the treatment is said to be very effective.

Control of Anger

If you wish not to be of an angry temper, do not feed the habit; throw nothing on it which will increase it; at first keep quiet and count the days on which you have not been angry. I used to be in a passion every day; now every second day; then every third; then every fourth. But if you have intermittent thirty days, make a sacrifice to God.—Epictetus.

Why have OAKLAND
Sales Doubled

All America has bestowed upon the Oakland Six the one sure mark of preference—ever-growing demand. State after state has favored the car so strongly that sales have doubled in the past six months.

The reasons for this unprecedented favor will be readily apparent to anyone who tests Oakland Six abilities.

The car has power for any hill you will encounter—more speed than you will care to use—acceleration that excites envy—smoothness of performance unmatched in its field—and, better still, a rugged endurance that assures years of service. Moreover, Oakland's amazing prices—$70 to $350 lower—single out the Oakland Six as an unequalled investment.
