Londoners Puzzled

A committee of 18 men, representing the medical association, the metropolitan police and magistrates, has been formed in London, to try to find an answer, through scientific tests, to the question which has been puzzling police courts for years: When is a man drunk? A wonderful variety of opinions have been given.

Woman's Lucky Day

When Mrs. Raymond Adams found a hard object in a chicken's gizzard at Gloucester City, N. J., she said it was a diamond, and her family laughed at her. Their opinion was that it was only glass. Mr. Adams took the stone to a jeweler, who said it was a perfect diamond, worth about $80. He was ordered to set the gem in a ring.

Old Treasure Trove

The blade of a plow directed by George Golier of Washington, N. J., lifted an earthenware pot from its century-old sanctuary and hurled it on the furrow ridge. Golier picked it up to throw it on a pile of stones. The cover came off and a stream of Colonial coins spilled out. The dates ran from between 1732 to 1766.

TAKING BLUE OUT OF WASH DAY

Electricity Makes Possible Many Labor Saving Devices on Farms

Short cuts in farm housekeeping are being encouraged by rapid developments in rural electric contracts.

Taking the "blue out of wash day," the heat out of ironing day and the dust out of cleaning day by the use of labor saving devices is fast becoming possible for the farm housewife. According to F. W. Duffee, agricultural engineer at the University of Wisconsin, the day is dawning when the new rural electric service will help to make the use of such conveniences economically possible.

Plumbers Given Dignity

The plumber may now have a degree tacked to the end of his name. The Carnegie Institute of Technology has added to its curriculum a professorship and two scholarships in plumbing, heating and ventilating, and Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of the school, says he hopes they will result in a further improvement in standards of living in America. The scholarships, each valued at $500, are available to Carnegie Tech students. They are the gift of the National Association of Master Plumbers and Women's Auxiliary.

Long-Distance Rescue

After being imprisoned between floors in an automatic elevator in a Chico (Cal.) hotel in the early morning hours when the power was shut off in order that the electric company might make repairs, R. D. Lyon of San Francisco was freed only after a long distance telephone call was put through to Oakland. Switches at Oakland were thrown open only for one minute to permit the elevator to be run to the next floor.

Golfer's Weakness Not Lack of Persistence

G. F. Lamprecht, the intercollegiate golf champion, told this golf story at a Tulane university tea: "An old gentleman was playing by himself on a Florida course while a match was in progress, and the match players soon caught up with him, for he was a very poor performer indeed."

"Fore!" they yelled. "Fore!" "Fore!" they yelled again. "Fore!" "Still he kept on, and finally one of the players went up to him and yelled 'Fore!' in his ear."

"Yes gentlemen, you're scoring me quite right," he said, and he straightened up and mopped his forehead. "Yes, that makes me fifty-two altogether, but I'll do the hole in 90 yet."

"And he bent down again for another shot."

Jay Walker to Blame for Half of the Deaths by Auto

MANY a motorist whose car has figured in a fatal accident will be able to present a clear sheet to Saint Peter when his time comes, when one considers all the contributing factors outside of the driver's own fault. A total of 1,390 auto fatalities on record with the Stewart-Warner Safety Council for the prevention of automobile accidents, covering a period of seven months, shows that in 727 cases the fault was clearly the pedestrian's and cannot be put down to the driver's weather or unavoidable circumstances.

The careless pedestrian's footsteps lead him to the grave by six distinct routes, says the Safety Council, and the most travel-worn of these is jaywalking. Sixty-two per cent of the 727 auto fatalities just referred to were due to streaking across busy streets without using the intersections. Children's playing in the streets was responsible for 31 per cent and coasting for another 3 per cent. Confusion on the part of the pedestrian, not hearing whistles and turning back in his tracks, brought about 6 per cent of these 727 deaths, while physical disability and intoxication rate 3 and 2 per cent respectively.
