Terrier Found Dead Man

Terrier Found Dead Man
For some weeks a small for terrier dog has been seen hoveringround part of. Newcastle quayside, and all attempts to catch it wive ussuccessful, says the Cardiff Pines, in a recent issue.
It disappeared, but returned in a few days, and, barking excitedly, apparently tried to draw attention to something. The polies took a boat and found, under the quay piles, the body of Préderick Potts, a young shipping clark of Dunston on Tyne, who had been missing from home since December 28.

The relatives state they know nothing as to the ownership of the dog, deceased not having a dog af all.

"My, what a start he gave me," she said, when he engaged her at $00 a week; to begin.—Cornell Widow.
