GRAND OLD MAN
AT DETROIT TEMPLE

Theodore Roberts, "grand old man of the screen," headlines the bill at B. F. Keith's Temple Theatre for the opening of the fall and winter season starting Sunday matinee. Mr. Roberts is touring Keith-Albee vaudeville by special arrangement with Jesse L. Lasky and makes a personal appearance in William B. DeMille's brilliant success "The Man Higher Up." It is a striking story of vengeance by mental suggestion on a white slaver who has deflowered an innocent girl under wantonly cruel circumstances. Others billed: Amelia Allen, international dance star with George Clifford, Neil English and Frank Allen; the Four Camerons, America's greatest comics in "Like Father Like Son"; Art Frank and Harriet Towne in "The Hick and the Chick"; Medley and Duprey in "Peanuts"; Sargent and Lewis offer "Laugh Lyrics"; Diaz and Powers in "Frolics on a Silver Thread" and the new screen subjects.

S. C.; Percy Pauline, Detroit City College; Byron Lapham to the University of Detroit.

We often wonder whether solemn men take life as seriously as they would lead us to believe they do.
