Safety for Motorists

After rains on one of the motor roads near London, a sand sprinkler is pressed into service to give the pavement a safety coating to reduce accidents, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The material is distributed from a revolving drum at the rear of the truck and is thrown on both sides to a total distance right and left equal to the width of the roadway.

Made by Chicago Man

The world's record for photography under a high power microscope has been broken for the third successive time by Robert G. Guthrie, chief metallurgist of a gas company in Chicago. He recently succeeded in taking a picture of a piece of steel magnified 15,500 diameters. What an immense magnification this is can be appreciated by realizing that a 25-cent piece, if actually enlarged that many times, would be a quarter of a mile across.

Mr. Guthrie's apparatus can separate and photograph structures that are only 1-200,000th of an inch thick. A vibration of even this infinitesimal distance is enough to spoil the exposure, which takes from one-half to one and a half hours. The lens is so powerful that the section which is recorded on the photographic plate is quite indistinguishable and invisible to the human eye.

On His Own Time

Here's the latest incident from Los Angeles, says a writer in the London Opinion. A certain film producer ordered his camera man to turn up at the studio one morning to shoot a scene. At the hour appointed he had not yet put in an appearance, so the producer rang him up on the phone.

The camera man's wife answered the call and wailed a piteous tale: "Yes, my husband's in," she sniffed; "he's sitting in the corner with a revolver and threatens to shoot me if I try to go out—just because I was late home last night, the jealous beast!"

"Say—look here!" roared the furious producer, "you tell him straight from me that in the daytime I've hired him to shoot films—if he wants to shoot you he's dashed got to do it at night, in his own time."

No Mercy for Rabbits

Roused by the annual crop losses of millions of dollars caused by rabbits, the Colorado legislature has permitted county commissioners to offer a bounty for each one killed. Boys earn pocket money in this way, getting a cent and sometimes more for each pair of ears. But the most successful method for combating the pest is through community drives. As many as 1,000 persons join in, herd the rabbits into V-shaped woven-wire traps and kill them with clubs. Last winter 500,000 were dispatched in this way.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Finnish Teachers Complain

Teachers in Finland are conducting an active campaign for improvement in the salary schedules which apply to them. They demand that they be placed upon the same level as that of certain other state employees, namely, train conductors, railway telegraph operators, track foremen, station watchmen, and track watchmen.—Alfred J. Pearson, United States Minister, Helsinki.

The Defense

Philip Murray, vice president of the United Mine-Workers, was criticizing in Washington a railroad's answer to the charge that it profited in bituminous coal.

"This answer," he said, "reminds me of a minister's daughter. She was a very lovely girl, and when the minister went unexpectedly into the parlor one night she jumped up from a young man's lap."

"After the young man had gone home the minister said to her:

"My dear, what am I to think? You were sitting on Charlie Simpson's lap, were you not?"

"Yes, papa, but," she answered, "I had one toe on the ground."

Who Saw America First?

While "The Flaming Frontier" was showing recently at the Colony, in New York, two Indians were employed for advertising purposes outside the theater.

Accosting one of the red men, an inquisitive gray-haired woman asked:

"You are a real Indian, aren't you?"

"Yes, madam," was the courteous response.

"How do you like our city?"

"Fine, madam. How do you like our country?"—Motion Pictures Today.
