

FLORIDA LEADS RELIEF RECORDS

Heads Major Disasters of 1926. Red Cross Active in 62 Emergencies in Year.

ALSO SERVES FOREIGN LANDS

Preparedness to Cope with Great Disturbances Gives Good Results in Action.

Facing one of the largest rehabilitation efforts of its whole history, as a result of the Florida hurricane, the American Red Cross already had behind it a record of service in 62 disasters at home, up to the close of the fiscal year, June 30, 1926.

When the hurricane struck Florida with such devastation and loss of life, the Red Cross National Headquarters was just congratulating itself that a year had passed without a major disaster within the borders of the country. The destruction in Florida has been tentatively estimated by Director of Disaster Relief Henry L. Baker, of the American Red Cross, in terms of relief work ahead of the organization. This takes into account all sufferers who must be cared for.

Careful surveys by experienced ambulance place the injured at 4,000, exclusive of the stricken Gulf Coast cities of Moorehaven and Clewiston. Of the 1,200 injured sent to Miami hospitals, 500 were suffering with broken fractures. In two other east coast communities the injured numbered nearly 1,000. The homeless were conservatively estimated at 50,000. Such figures sketchily reveal the human and material problem which the American Red Cross is still doing its utmost to solve.

For comparison the other outstanding recent disaster, the Midwest tornado of March 18, 1925, can be described in more detail. In that catastrophe the final check showed 800 dead, 3,000 injured and 6,847 families of approximately 30,000 men, women and children rendered homeless. The final relief operations of the Red Cross were brought to a close March 18, 1926, exactly a year from the day the tornado struck two states.

So terrible did the death and destruction impress itself on the experienced Red Cross forces rushed into Florida that Chairman John Barton Payne did not hesitate to call for a relief fund from the whole country of $5,000,000. The Red Cross conceived every resource in trained personnel on the stricken region. The New Jersey munitions explosion in July, while terrible as a spectacle, could not compare with either of these other two disasters in final destructiveness. It gave the Red Cross an opportunity for service in which Red Cross nurses treated 88 injured, and during the height of the emergency fed between 700 and 800 people driven from their homes. More than 400 cases were registered with the Red Cross after the explosion for assistance in regaining their homes and life through rehabilitation work. This latter is a regular part of the Red Cross relief operations in all disasters, and means as task continued long after the country has ceased to think of the occurrence itself.

The year has seen a new measure of disaster relief preparedness inaugurated by the Red Cross, under which a trained roster of medical and other relief experts is constantly on call for any service. This preparedness justified itself in both the New Jersey explosion, and in the Florida hurricane. In the latter the Red Cross had at call more than 300 experienced disaster workers with a network of prepared chapters all over the country. This preparedness, constantly demonstrated, is held as material assurance that the country is better protected today than ever before from the suffering such misfortune engender.

Had as were domestic disasters in both the last fiscal year and recent months, some of those abroad in the same time have been comparable, especially a flood in Mexico. Altogether the American Red Cross served in the name of the American people in more than 15 foreign catastrophes. The Tenth Annual Roll Call for membership to maintain such activities was held from November 11 to 25, and is an opportunity for all to enroll themselves in the American Red Cross.

Educators Give Junior Red Cross High Praise

Growing recognition by leading educators all over the world has been an achievement of the Junior Red Cross in the last fiscal year.

Included in those which have taken especially favorable cognizance of Junior Red Cross efforts are the World Federation of Education Associations at Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1925; the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association, at Washington, D.C., and the National Education Association in Philadelphia, June, 1926. Various State educational bodies have confirmed this approval, the report adds. As a phase of their work, the Juniors have developed contacts through exchange of correspondence, with similar Junior organizations in virtually every part of the world, and through the development of this medium - many leaders see a better chance for world peace in future. An especially notable development of Junior organization has occurred in Porto Rico, with an enrollment of 137,000, and the Philippines, with 912,000.

More than 5,000,000 American Juniors are at work in this organization of the American Red Cross. Their example is held out by the American Red Cross during the Tenth Annual Roll Call for membership, as one for all Americans to endorse and join the parent organization during the period November 11 to 25 this year.

War Over, But Red Cross Nurses Are Ever On Duty

Has the romantic picture of the Red Cross Nurse faded with the war days? It has been more than 12 years since that first contingent of brave women had at call more than 300 experienced disaster workers with a network of prepared chapters all over the country. This preparedness, constantly demonstrated, is held as material assurance that the country is better protected today than ever before from the suffering such misfortune engender.

Find Lost Comet

Ensnor's comet, which was lost from view after it passed near the sun this year, was located again by two German astronomers. It was then of the thirteenth magnitude and invisible to the naked eye.

Ox Called Attention to Its Wounded Mate

An unusual example of devotion of one animal to another was displayed at the farm of J. S. Anderson in Shelburne, Mass., when one of the oxen of the yoke owned by Mr. Anderson brought aid to his mate, who, unknown to the owner, was very sick in the pasture three-quarters of a mile away.

The family were at dinner when they heard an ox bellowing in the yard. They paid no attention to it at first, but when the noise continued they went out to investigate. As soon as the ox saw the family he turned around and started for the pasture, turning and bellowing every little way. The animal's strange conduct caused the owner to continue following him until he came upon the other ox in the pasture very ill. A veterinarian was summoned, who found that the sick animal was suffering from indigestion, which was promptly relieved.

Lead Called Cancer Cure

Dr. Blair Bell of the University of Edinburgh has announced that lead used to cure cancer is proving promising, as out of 227 so-called hopeless cases 30 have had no recurrence of cancer and have shown no trace of lead poisoning. In 10 cases cancerous growths have been arrested and 9 others have shown some improvement. Lead salt injections are poisonous and an effort is being made to devise a lead colloid that will not have poisonous results.

Physically Perfect Man

One of the year's most remarkable savings is that "men are more beautiful than women," an opinion expressed by Prof. F. C. Kleeberger, University of California, says Capper's Weekly. This has suggested a new kind of beauty contest, and out of 81 promising candidates in San Francisco, Walter La Berge emerges as San Francisco's most nearly physically perfect man. The new Adonis is twenty-one, stays home nights, gets an average of nine hours sleep, is bronzed by daily swimming and is muscular from exercising with bells and weights and a horizontal bar. Possibly he works at something else between times. His record indicates he is not a cake-eater, a sheik, a lounge-lizard nor a clothes model, and it may be he has some sense as well as pulchritude.

Eating Is Regulated

Followers of the Buddhist religion give attention to a strict regulation in their eating and drinking habits. Intoxicating beverages are expressly forbidden, and the eating of meat is permissible only under the following restrictions: One must have killed the animal himself, he must not have ordered anyone to kill it, it must not have been killed by anyone with the intention of supplying it to him, and he must not suspect that the animal has been killed. However, meat eaters among the Buddhists of Ceylon, Burma and Siam get around these laws.

Our idea of a pioneer is the fellow who can remember when the hired man thought it the height of opulence to ride to town on Saturday night with the farmer and his wife.

Queen Marie bought five fur coats in Chicago. It can't be her reception was that chilly.
