

Local talent brings fresh energy to new show

Fresh energy is created by the new variety show featuring entertainment by local talent. "The New Vaudevillian" is produced by Ray Kaczor, Karen McMillon and Dennis Canfield, who are residents to the cable franchise.

Acts include an improv group, a singer, a mime, a magician, a singing group and dancers. The hosts are Mary Miller and Jim McLean, who are comedians entertaining all over the metropolitan area of Detroit. The fascinating quality of this program is how it blends real vaudeville into a history of vaudeville.

In between entertainment they show how vaudeville started, why it became so popular and what happened when vaudeville made the transition to radio, television and the movies. You may check Channel 12 for the exact times and dates.

Look forward to seeing your local entertainers on the show. You may recognize such names as Intrigue, Howard Faber, Stunt Johnson Theater, Tony Wilson, Michelle Lee, and the Betty Johnston Dance Studio.
