Drugs suspected in woman's death

A 36-year-old Farmington Hills woman was found dead of an apparent drug overdose at a friend's apartment on Middlebelt Road Sunday, according to Farmington Hills police.

Anne M. Belanski was pronounced dead at Botsford General Hospital, Farmington Hills, where she was taken from the Maple Ridge Apartments Sunday morning by Community Emergency Medical Services ambulance.

According to a police report, a friend saw Belanski at Shot's Tavern, 30559 10 Mile, where Belanski asked the friend if she knew where she could buy cocaine. The friend said she didn't.

returned later and told the friend she had found some cocaine and taken it. The friend told police she saw Belanski drink three shots of tequila.

Because Belanski appeared very intoxicated as the bar was closing, the friend offered to take her back to her apartment. Belanski, the friend told police, fell asleep on the couch.

Sometime between 9:30 and 10 a.m. the next morning, the friend tried to rouse Belanski. The friend, who called police, said Belanski was unresponsive. Medically trained Farmington Hills firefighters also responded to the apartment.

Police are investigating the death.
