Black lacquered boxes and eggs handpainted in traditional Russian miniature style are decorated with hair-thin brushes and a magnifying glass. The egg here was made in Russia and handpainted in the old tradition by immigrants in the U.S. for The Lexi Collection. It features St. Basil's Cathedral in Red Square and can be displayed on its stand or hung from the Yule tree. The egg and stand are $32. A variety of useful and attractive boxes includes this circular one, part of a collection handpainted by artists in the villages of Russia. Titled "The Scarlet Flower," it is $52. At Lois Wright, Main Street Plaza, Rochester.
