● JANICE CHARACH

EPSTEIN MUSEUM/GALLERY

Through Jan. 16 — The exhibition, "After Perestroika Russian Immigrant Artists in Israel," continues. Hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday-Wednesday, 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday and 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday at the Jewish Community Center, Maple and Drake in West Bloomfield, 661 1090, Ext. 470.

● CENTER GALLERIES

Beginning Friday, Jan. 17 — "Organic Sensibilities: Recent Sculpture by Barbara Cooper and Joan Livingston" will continue to Feb. 28. Cooper and Livingston, graduates of the Cranbrook Academy of Art, create large-scale sculptures that are sensual, curvaceous and flowing in shape and outline.

A slide lecture and discussion by the artists, open to the public, will take place at 11:30 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 16, at Boughman Auditorium, Center for Creative Studies Institute of Music and Dance, John R. and Kirby, Detroit. The opening reception to meet the artists will be 5-7 p.m. Friday, Jan. 17. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, at Woodward Avenue and Kirby in the Park Shelton Building, Detroit, 874-1954.

● PARK WEST GALLERY

Friday, Jan. 17 — The poetic landscapes created by American artist Robert Kipniss will be the focus of a retrospective exhibition beginning Friday and continuing through Feb. 20. This exhibition begins the gallery's 1992 new acquisitions series. Private reception Friday attended by the artist. Kipniss will also be at the gallery Saturday and Sunday.

The one-man exhibit will feature 56 lithographs and 37 paintings produced by Kipniss between 1955 and 1991. Born of his own vision of nature, Kipniss' delicate and sensitive landscapes are composed from memory within the studio rather than on location. Kipniss' works, in his own words, are very much in line with traditional American landscape painters, including the Hudson River school, and are somewhat influenced by the surrealists.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday-Wednesday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday-Friday, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, 29459 Northwest Highway, Southfield, 351-2343.

● CREATIVE ARTS CENTER

Beginning Jan. 17 — The center presents "What's Going On Here?" an ongoing collaborative installation by artists David Barr, Bob Caskey and Jim Pallas that will run through Feb. 21. The exhibition will be a constantly changing and evolving installation of art work, with the artists responding to each other's work in the gallery space. A reception for the artists will take place at the close of the show, 5-7 p.m. Feb. 21. The center is at 47 Williams, Pontiac. Call 333-7849 for information.

● HILL GALLERY

To Jan. 18 — An exhibition of museum quality paintings and three-dimensional folk sculpture continues. Included in this collection of rare 18th and 19th century works are paintings by John Blunt, Sheldon Peck and Antonio Jacobsen, a fine carousel horse by Charles Loeffl, a cigar store figure by Charles Robb, and a "Steak" weathervane by master craftsman J. Howard. The gallery is at 163 Townsend, Birmingham, 540-9288.

● BIRMINGHAM BLOOMFIELD ART ASSOCIATION

Through Jan. 25 — Oriental brush painting exhibition continues. A demonstration will be given 2 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 18. This is a joint exhibition involving the Los Angeles Chinese Artists Association and the Midwest Oriental Art Club as a means to nurture a cross-cultural group with common interests in Oriental brushwork and calligraphy.

Coordinator is Yu-Ming Yang, a member of the DBAA faculty, whose paintings have been selected for many exhibitions in the United States and Far East countries. The show will feature works by her father, the late Liang Yu-Ming, whose art is in the collections of many museums.

The contemporary paintings will include landscapes, figures, animal and still lifes, plus calligraphy works, seals and seal carvings. Hours are 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday-Saturday, 1316 S. Cranbrook Road, Birmingham, 544-0866.

● O.K. HARRIS WORKS OF ART

Through Jan. 18 — Installation piece by Tetsuji Seta is on display. The work combines sculpture of cast iron on limestone surrounded by black-and-white photography. Hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, or Mondays by appointment, 430 N. Woodward, Birmingham, 433-3700.

● XOCCHIPILLI GALLERY

To Jan. 18 — An exhibit by Michigan artist Doug Warner of his newest paintings, "Notations," continues. During the past decade, Warner has explored rituals and lore expressed through universal symbols, including Navajo planetaria, aerial views of Stonehenge, the Bighorn Medicine Wheel and stellar charts. The works in the show are a series of paintings reflecting Warner's fascination with man's mysterious markings and the collective consciousness of man. Each canvas is etched with markings built up with rope attachments and glazed with rich, vibrant hues. Hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 555 S. Woodward, Birmingham, 642-8250.

● SUSANNE HILBERRY GALLERY

The artist, who will be 99 years old in March, continues to work in her studio every day. The exhibition will include figures as well as vessel work. Hours are 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 555 S. Woodward, Birmingham, 642-8250.

● FEIGENSON/PRESTON GALLERY

Sunday, Jan. 19 — Paul Schwarz and Robert Sexton open a two-man show 2-5 p.m. Sunday. They are fellow veterans of the Cass Corridor "School." Sexton creates welded steel sculpture and Schwarz is a master of the collage and geometric form. The exhibition will continue through Feb. 22. Hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, 736 N. Woodward, Birmingham, 644-3955.

● MEADOW BROOK ART GALLERY

Sunday, Jan. 19 — The paintings and sculptures of 25 Michigan artists are featured in the gallery's first exhibition of the new year, "Expressive Visions and Exquisite Images Part II: Michigan Artists." The show, closing March 15, will present a statewide survey focusing on two trends of the art produced during the 1980s, realism and expressionism.

Artists well established in realism, such as Robert Wilbert, Nancy Ritter and John Higray, contrast sharply with the new generation of artists working in expressionist and surrealist styles. Visitors can relish the freshness of Cathy VanVoorhis' impressionistic landscape of a simple country road. Or they can be stimulated by the vibrant expres-sionist and violent immediacy in the works of Marion Modie, Lynn Gallbreath and Bruce "Boyer." A third trend in the exhibition is a new form of surrealism presented by metropolitan Detroit painters Ed Frapp, Tom Humes and Carl DeLongmore. The gallery will host a forum, "Artists Speak," 8:10 p.m. Mondays, Jan. 27 and Feb. 10. Admission is $3, free for members of the Meadow Brook Gallery Association.

Opening reception for the exhibition 2-5 p.m. Sunday. Hours are 1-5 p.m. Tuesday-Friday, 2-7 p.m. week ends at Oakland University, Rochester, 370-3005.

● COUNTY GALLERIA

To Jan. 30 — Michigan Surface Design No. 2, a juried show of textiles, wearable art, ceramics and paintings by Michigan surface designers, continues. Also included is a selection of works for a show at the Midland Center for the Arts. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Friday, in the executive office building at the Oakland County Service Center, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac, 856-0415.
