

Rocks romp to WLAA title

By DAN O'MEARA

SALEM, WISCONSIN

If Mack Gregor had his way, Plymouth Salem would have won the Western Lakes Activities Association title in girls track a lot sooner, but the Rocks finally got their due Tuesday.

After finishing fifth, third, second and third in Gregor's first four years as the Salem coach, the Rocks took first place and dejected defending champ Plymouth Canton at Centennial Educational Park.

"It looks like we had a five-year plan, but we really didn't have one," Gregor said. "We hung around the top the last four years, and I guess it was our turn this year."

Salem was ready to challenge the Chiefs this year and out came Canton with a strong finish. The Rocks scored 170 points, Canton 137, Livonia Stevenson 103 and Walled Lake Western 100.

"The thing that is great about the Salem team is they're so strong down the stretch in the 300 hurdles, 200 dash and 1,000 relay," Canton coach George Przygodski said. "You know they're going to score points."

"We were hoping to amass as many points as we possibly could early in the meet and hope we could hold on. We just couldn't stretch the lead enough on them, and they were able to come back."

Canton led until midway in the meet when Salem junior Tonya Wheeler won the 400-meter dash and put the Rocks in front 105-100. Then Salem captured three places in the 300 hurdles, with senior Theresa Glachier winning the race, and extended its lead to 125-110.

"Twenty-one points is outstanding," Gregor said. "Any time you lift the scoreboard with that many points in a close meet, it takes a little air out of the teams that are close to you."

Wheeler repeated as the 400-meter champion, also won the 200 this year and anchored Salem's winning 800 and 1,600 relay teams.

"I can't say enough about Tonya Wheeler," Gregor said. "She's had an outstanding year, and it doesn't just happen for her. She works at it the year around."

Glachier was a double winner, too. Besides winning the 300 hurdles for a second time, she improved upon a third-place finish in the 100 hurdles last year to add that league title.

"She's had a great career, but the last three weeks she's done the best hurdling I've seen from a Salem girl," Gregor said. "We had a good one in Jennifer Harris, and she's right there with her."

While Wheeler and Glachier were individual standouts, the Rocks relied on a lot of girls to produce the team victory, scoring in every event but the shot put.

After Salem finished second in the regional meet Friday, Gregor was concerned about his team being ready for another top performance in the WLAA meet.

"Once we got started on the track, momentum took over," he said. "The girls feed off each other's success, and we got better as the meet went along."

"A lot of great coaches told me the strength of your team depends on your ability to run 400 dashes. If you can develop quarter milers, there are a lot of things you can do with them, and that is the strength of our team."

Przygodski was asked what he saw as the difference between the Canton and Salem teams of a year ago and 1992. The Chiefs overpowered the opposition last year by scoring 175 points, Stevenson 119 and the Rocks 102.

"They had some tremendous ninth graders come in and help their program," he said. "You can't say enough about Sarah Hamilton and Melissa Hopson. Those kids added to what already was a good nucleus."

"For us to beat them, we had to run a perfect meet, and they would have had to help us. We ran a near-perfect meet, but they sure didn't give us much help."

Canton had its standouts and remains a young team, also. Stephanie Gray repeated as WLAA champ in high jump, and other winners were Nita Okunimhin in the 100, the 400 relay team and Christie Salfon in the 800.

"Stephanie Gray really came through in the high jump," Przygodski said. "She had two miles at 4:10, made it on the third attempt and ended up winning. Nita was outstanding and Salfon's 800-meter run was a great, great race."

Walled Lake Western set the only WLAA record by winning the 3,200 relay in 6:42 and breaking the mark of 9:45.5 set by Stevenson in 1987.

won the 800 in 1:57.86 and the 1,600 in 4:28.47. Crosby hoped to add a third victory, but in his fourth and final event, the 3,200, he suffered from cramps and fatigue and failed to finish.

Crosby also anchored Western's lone relay winner, the 3,200 team, which won with a time of 8:07.86.

Keeney said seniors Brust and Crosby "really took us through." Keeney was also pleased with the 3,200 relay squad, which broke Western's school record.

"We've been trying to do that since this group of kids started in high school," Keeney said. "I'm glad we could get our top four half-milers in this event." In addition to Crosby, the other runners were Jim Sweetman, Brandon Keeney and Matt Wright.

Entering the meet, Keeney felt his team had a shot at reaching the 120-point mark. "I felt if we could squeeze out every last drop we might get 120 points. We just about squeezed out every last drop," he said.

Harrison triumphed in long and short races Wednesday, winning three sprints and one distance event.

Duane Anderson won the 100 (11.23), Roy Granger, the runnerup in the 100, broke their tape in the 200 (22.83). Granger and Anderson then ran first and fourth, respectively, as Harrison won the 400 relay in 43.53. The other team members were Scott Garke and Jason Dreyer.

Jason Zylinski and Todd Haney gave the Hawks a one-two finish in the 3,200. Zylinski won the race in 10:00.41.

Schumacher, who noted that Harrison had "some great individual performances," was also pleased with Dreyer's second-place finish in the 800.

Unlike Western, which featured Crosby and Brust, running in four events each, Schumacher said he didn't use his top performers "to the max." He added, "if we would've loaded up events, we would've scored more points. From a team standpoint I think that was sort of our downfall."

Northville won three individual events and two relays. "Northville has a great team," Keeney said. "I'm glad they won it if we couldn't."

Churchill's Matt Gierthy won the pole vault. He and runnerup Brandon Richardson both cleared 12 feet, but Gierthy had fewer misses.

Farmington's Jason Tucker won the high jump at 6-3 and John Glendon Richardson Buck won the long jump at 21-44.
