'Let's go fly a kite. . .' at Heritage Park

Go fly a kite! Give that order on these windy spring days, and you're sure to send a crowd to Heritage Park in Farmington Hills. They'll be holding strings and looking skyward.

On a recent Saturday, about 80 "kites" showed up at Heritage Park for the third-annual Kite Fly sponsored by the Farmington Hills Special Services Department. "It was fairly low key," said Dave Justus, recreation supervisor and a kite enthusiast. "They just came out and flew their own kites. We also had a craft class where kids could make their own kites." There was also a demonstration by the 5-20 Kite Flying Club of Royal Oak.

Justus turned a few heads with his "stunt" kite. "It has two lines and it's pretty sophisticated," he said. "You can control the kite to fly and make it do things in the air."

Just because spring turns to summer doesn't mean the kite season has to end. Justus has set aside an area of Heritage Park from 6 p.m. every Thursday from June 4 to Aug. 27.
