A Saturday night serenade of DSO strings entertained 36 art supporting guests at the Fishers'. During the cocktail hour, the family's laborer retrievers mingled with the guests, for a game of "go fetch."

Meanwhile, Musical Feast friends Dr. Martyna Miskinis and Urban Antos of Orchard Lake shared their wild west adventures with the Archives of American Art tour of the Southwest. Under the direction of West Bloomfield Marilyn Schlain, supporters of the archives toured the homes of such notables as Estee Lauder.

"We ate steaks on a mountaintop and went on a wagon ride in Jackson Hole. I even bought a pair of cowboy boots," said local "Urban" cowboy.

DuMouchelle Gallery auctioneer Joseph Walker also attended the Fishers' feast with beautiful Lisette Daignault at his side. They have just returned from a month-long vacation that included a trip to Bora Bora, which incidentally will be one of the trips offered at the Fish Bash auction in August.

Joe Walker, who heads the auction committee for the DIA Fish Bash, exposed some of the exciting auction items to bid on — Space Camp for kids, tickets to the MTV music awards, a family cruise on Disney's "Big Red Boat" and a whirlwind holiday in Italy.

Others attending the violin victual were Dr. Reginald and Anne Harnett, Stan and Connie Krandall, Justine Miller, Mark Saevisky, Karen Randolph, and Lisa and Jonathan Rye. DSO performers were Darryl Jeffers, Alvin Score, David Ireland and John Thurman.

The Sunday afternoon symphony celebration "Romance on the Lake" brought guests in summer blazers and romantic dresses to the home of Mado and Dr. Kim Lie. Symphony supporters enjoyed the Sunday afternoon lake breezes before attending a performance with Emmanuelle Bolavert, DSO concertmaster, and Pauline Martin, pianist.

Bolavert was playing with the DSO for the Joffrey Ballet at 1 p.m. and arrived by 4:15 to perform at the Musical Feast.

Guests seen in the elaborate Lila living room, among the two-story floor-to-ceiling windows, the walk-in fireplace and an exquisite medieval tapestry, included West Bloomfield residents William and Barbara Warner. Barbara was wearing a crisp white linen dress and romantic picture hat. Also relishing the musical talents of the dynamic duo was Diane Varisto of Southfield, who was dressed in a fabulous navy sleeveless Escada dress. Hostess Mado Lie was a picture in a pastel, floral off-the-shoulder Southern belle number.

Musical Feast Committee members Fay Ann Resnick and Ellie Tholen enjoyed the afternoon, while assisting Grahovac on the glorious Sunday afternoon.

If you have not had an opportunity to attend a DSOH Musical Feast, here's what's coming up:

"Gavotte in the Garden," Metamora, Sunday, July 19, $80. (Hosts: The Richard Vernicks).

"Brunch with Brass," Farmington Hills, Sunday, July 26, $40. (Hosts: The Dennis Ellassens).

"Overtures at Finales," Bingham Farms, Aug. 1, $60. (Hosts: The William Bosticks and Katherine Wasserfallen).

"Midsummer Night's Dream," Bingham Farms, Aug. 5, $90. (Hosts: The David Hermellins).

Show debuts: The artist Arman (left), Lila Silverman of Southfield, Corice Arman and Gil Silverman celebrate opening of "Arman 1955-1991" at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Getting together: Author and talk show host Dennis Wholley greets longtime friend Heida Stein (Heidi's Salons) of West Bloomfield.

Notable event: Barbara and William Warner of West Bloomfield enjoy summertime classical music, with Musical Feast chairwoman Lidija Grahovac.

Sounds of music: Notables at Fisher's Musical Feast soiree to benefit the DSOH are Urban Antos and Dr. Martyna Miskinis of Orchard Lake.
