

Wheelchair bowlers show they can roll ball with authority

AL HARRISON

The event, held at Super Bowl in Canton Township, was put together by Livonian Bob Calderon, sports director of the PVA.

Walter Runchey of Garden City, a paraplegic and veteran of the Korean conflict, took the top prize in the B Division.

Runchey came through the war just fine, only to be injured later on in an industrial accident.

Now wheelchair bound, Runchey is active in all kinds of sports including track and field, billiards and table tennis. He has won several medals for his efforts, even though considered a quadriplegic.

His high game in bowling is a 193 (he carries a 104 league average). He's also been past president of the Michigan PVA and is very active in various programs for the handicapped.

He's resided in Garden City since 1972 where his daughter, Le, graduated from GC High.

For Runchey and the rest of the wheelchair bowlers who participated in this tournament, it provides a great example of human spirit and courage. It's also another example on how the sport of bowling reaches out to any and all who wish to take part.

• The second annual mini-camp will take place from 9 a.m. until noon, Saturday-Sunday, Aug. 22-23 at Town 'n Country Lanes in Westland.

The event is open to all bowlers

(free) and sponsored by the Western Wayne Youth Traveling Classic. Instruction to bowlers of all levels is also free.

Also, sign-up for the Youth Traveling League will be held at the same location, 12:30 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 23.

• Last Wednesday was the final night of Summer League Trio at Town 'n Country where league president Joe Belanger finished with a flurry, capturing high series with a 790. Most of his points were rolled up in the final game as he threw the first 11 strikes on his way to a 299, only to be foiled by the stubborn 10-pin on his last ball.

• Many of the local leagues are getting set for an early start this fall due to the late Labor Day (Sept. 7) date, not wanting to stretch the season out too long in the spring.

This is particularly true for any Friday leagues which forfeit a pair of dates (Christmas and New Years). Thursday night leagues will also be affected.

There are many openings for new bowlers.

In the next two or three weeks, this column will compile a list of leagues that need bowlers to complete rosters.

Openings normally run the anywhere from toddlers to senior citizens, beginners and experts, daytime leagues for housewives (complete with baby sitting), mixed (couples) leagues (to socialize), money leagues (for big shooters), youth traveling leagues (for future stars), and special leagues for the disabled.

Your local bowling center can tell you exactly what openings exists and who to contact.

HONOR ROLL

Town 'n Country Men's Summer Trio — Joe Belanger, 299 (game) and 790 (series); Jim Allen, 270/229; Fred Goff, 254/200; Chane Staley, 248/688; Andy Devench, 257/678; Yves Samard, 256/665; Bill Gaskins, 256; John Knech, 259; Jerry Maynor, 246/649; Bill Reynolds, 247, 657.

Coming in standing: Amy Kelman of North Farmington hit a two-run double to help the Diamonds' cause Thursday. The Diamonds lost the first game against the Salem Shags 12-3 and won the second 5-4.

Hitting the mark

O'Donnell didn't do bad herself with low and round. She survived the first two rounds of qualifying with 1,295 points, good enough for 20th place and a berth in head-to-head competition in the field of 32.

O'Donnell upset Lioudmila Arjannikova of the Unified Team, 101-97, to reach the field of 16 before being eliminated by eventual bronze medalist Natalia Valeeva (Unified), 112-105.

Head-to-head competition was added to the archery competition for the first time in Olympic history to make the sport more appealing to a television audience. O'Donnell believes the rule change might allow archery to stay as an Olympic sport.

"It's not like we can compete (for fan appeal) with gymnastics and swimming but now each arrow counts and anything can happen, just like a gymnast can fall off a beam," O'Donnell said.

O'Donnell's parents, Jack and Diane, made the trip, stayed in a motel 1 1/2 hours away and watched all of their daughter's competition. Jack and Diane sat in the stands holding a sign with the words MGB written on it.

It had special meaning to O'Donnell.

"Since they're fixing up an MGB convertible my parents made a bet with me that if I took home the gold medal they'd let me have the MGB next summer," the younger O'Donnell said.

What if she won the silver or bronze?

"I'd get the car only if I got the gold — they weren't making any compromises," she said.

Feeling the heat

Jennifer adjusted well to the hot Spain weather and wore a Michigan State baseball cap during competition to keep the sun out of her eyes. Barcelona is near the Mediterranean Sea "so we got the breeze," O'Donnell said. "It was 10 to 15 degrees hotter in Madrid, so we got lucky."

The living accommodations at the Olympic Village included a two-bedroom apartment shared by O'Donnell and three other archery athletes. O'Donnell wasn't far from a beach — or free Pizza Hut stands.

"We ate pizza quite a bit," O'Donnell said. "It was like, I come back home and now I have to pay for food?"

O'Donnell also got $200 in spending money and bought "inns of T-shirts."

The O'Donnells said they were treated fine by the Spaniards, although Diane noticed a rare form of animal cruelty.

"If the dogs don't want to go, (their owners) drag them," she said.

SOFTBALL

Diamonds earn split of twinbill

The Salem Shags lost ground in their bid to catch the frontrunning Canton Cobras by splitting a double-header with the Farmington Hills Diamonds in Incredible Girls Fastpitch Softball League play Thursday at Northville's Ford Field.

Salem won the first easily, 12-3, but the Diamonds bounced back to take the nightcap, 5-4.

With the league season entering its final week, the Cobras retain their hold on first with a 14-2 record. The Farmington Hills Majors are second at 11-3, followed by the Farmington Hills Hornets (12-4), the Shags (13-5) and the Diamonds (9-7).

Amy Ruthig hurled a two-hitter for Salem in the opener, and both hits came in the opening inning. After the first two Diamond batters reached base, Amy Kelman singled them home to give Farmington Hills a 2-0 lead.

But it was all Salem after that. The Shags scored three in the first and added seven more in the second off losing pitcher Becky Thurman. Amanda Tubugh and Jennifer Lock each had two-run doubles in the seven-run rally, and Lisa Giranda drove in a run with a base hit. Tubugh had two hits for Salem.

In the second game, timely hitting carried the Diamonds to victory. Megan Stephan was the winner, pitching one scoreless inning in relief of starter Courtney Carlson, who gave up two runs in two innings. Rachel Allard finished up, going two innings and surrendering two runs.

Allard and Kelman each had a hit and scored twice for the Diamonds; Kelman drove in a run, too. Kate Mackie contributed a hit and an RBI, and Jenny Holtzman had a base hit.

Salem scored twice in the fifth to make it close on a two-run single by Kelli Fitzpatrick, who usually plays for the Diamonds but switched sides for this game so the Shags would have enough players.
