

Farmington Observer

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1992 • FARMINGTON, MICHIGAN • 36 PAGES

VOLUME 103 NUMBER 98

IN THE PAPER

Hurricane relief: Hurricane An-

Farmington-area youngsters are helping provide relief for the victims./3a

Police report: Farmington police are investigating a report from a youngster that a man invaded her apartment./6A

School's Inl: Got those back-toschool jitters? Even parents get them, says educator James "Doc" Doyle. Hints for middle, high school and college-age students are on the Points of View page/8A

Chill competition: Top chill Paul Huyck of Farmington Hills offers tips for making the best pot of chi-li. Huyck will be defending his chili title at the annual Michigan Chili Cookoff on Sept. 13./1B

OPINION

TASTE

STREET SCENE

Cops ask tips on student betting

Information, please. That's what authorities are seek-ing from Farmington-area parents and students as an investigation into gambling by high school students continues. By JOANNE MALISZEWSKI and CASEY HANS STAFF WRITERS drew roared across Florida, leaving devastation in its wake. Some Farmington Hills police are con-cerned that parents and students have not called with information about gambling among high school students. "I really found it surprising that we received no calls," police Chief William

Dwyer said. "We're not looking to pros-ecute the bettors -- the students. And we are not holding the parents responsi-ble like we do with hosting house par-ties. I'm looking for parents and stu-dents who have information." Following the arrest of two men fast week on estorilon charges in connection with gambling among students from North Farmington High School, police North Farmington High School, police asked parents or students to call with more information to determine how widespread gambling is in North Farm-ington as well as other achools. "There is no way this could be con-fined to North Farmington High School," Dwyer said. "These guys (who were atreasted) weren't the kingpins."

Keep in touch

In the aftermath of all the publicity - particularly on television - school officials and community leaders are asking parents to keep in better touch with their childr with their children. In fact, Dwyer is wondering if parents forure that now two meen have been ar-rested, "it's water under the bridge and let flow." But officials don't think the issue should die -- despite the sometimes annoying continuous media bilts for the sake of students. "I think the real key here is knowing sake of students. "I think the real key here is knowing where your children are after school. We know where they are during the day. It's

FIFTY CENTS

See BETTING, 2A

Additional Heritage: A proud Dan Potter, director of special services for Farmington Hills, leans out the window of the new portion of the Day Camp Building in Heritage Park.

No mystery: It's a day camp building from the city's parks and recreation millage fund.

BY JOANNE MALISZEWSKI STAFF WRITER

If you've ever wondered what is being built not far from the Spicer House or the pond in Heritage Park, t's a day camp.

"It's rustic. It's meant to be that way," said Dan Potter, Farmington Hills special services director.

The day camp building includes the old 1,500 square-foot sheep barn from the late Eleanor Spicer days, as well as an additional 2,000 square feet of new construction all at a cost of $250,000.

"The sheep barn is being preserved and renovated," Potter said. Restora-tion includes the outside, improved electricity, a new roof, and work on the doors. The sheep barn is what the parks and recreation department has been using for the popular six-year-old one overlooked aspect of the quar-tet's career has been its B-singles BY CASEY HANS STATT WRITER

SPORTS

Grid kickoff: The high school football season began Saturday with all three Farmington teams playing non-league games./1C

Hitting singles: While much of the talk about U2 centers on the group's albums and mega tours

releases./4B

Tourney final: Farmington played for the championship of the Troy Tournament in girls basketball Thursday night./2C

CABLE TV WEEKLY

Local access: "Viewpoint" will be presented on Channel 12. Check your cable guide for time and date.

OUR PHONE NUMBERS

	Newsroom: 477-5450
	Newsroom Fax: 477-9722
	Sports: 953-2141
	r Comment Line: 953-2042 -
	ified Advertising: 5910900
Di.	play Advertising: 591–2300
	Home Delivery: 591-0500 (able/TV Weekly: 953–2199

Fifty-five teachers at the private Jew-ish school on Middlebelt Road are represented by the Hillel Teachers As-sociation, an affiliate of the state and mational Federation of Teachers union. A total of 650 students in grades kin-STAT WHITER Teachers at Hills Usay School in Farmington Hills walked the picket lines last week, striking over what they said was an unfair wage offer by that school's board. At press time Thursday, it appeared the union and school were far from reaching a settlement.

dergarten through eighth grade were to have started classes on Tuesday, when the teachers went on strike. Their twoyear contract had recently expired.

Gene would not comment on whether the school doors would remain closed during the teachers' strike. He said the board is attempting to get a three-year contract approved and agreed that wages are the major stumbiling block.

See TEACHERS. 2A

Notiate Nav

Teachers turned pickets: Striking teachers Bella Levkovich (left, hand over face) and Shoshana Glodschlag discus job concerns while walking a picket line at Hillel Day School in Farmington Hills.

FARMINGTON FOCUS

when it happened, but I was a mess afterward." when it heppened, buil was a mess altervatu. The baby, Benden Jacquellen, checked in st 6 pounds, 14 ounces and 18½ inches. At last report, she and her mother were doing fine at Henry Ford. Simmons, 22, is a 1938 graduate of Harrison High School. She will receive her nursing degree from WSU in December.

They're recognized!

The city of Permiption Hills says: Hats off to sev-en Farmington Hills youths, age 11-13, for their com-mittment in a serving as voluntere in various summer rereation programs offered to the community. They are Marci Anatanding, Christopher Coxello, Denise Lauhoff, Miranda Leibowitz, Chris McVittie, Angie Newman and Faith Sluffer. They served in day camps, the Nature's Way Camp, Safety Town and Campa, the Nation of the National Summer Fun centers. Anyone interested in volunteering for the programs should call the Farmington Hills Recreation Division at 473-9570

Memory Lane

From the Sept. 4, 1952, Farmington Enterprise: An explosion and fire put Russell Cowan out of his St. Francis Street home and into Redford Receiving Horpital with serious huma. According to police, the explasion probably happened when the fisme from the water heart inplied natural gas in the house, which was completely destroyed. Cowan was blown clear of the structure. Farmington Township fire-fighters were unable to open a nearby hydrant. al of his

There were no further plans to negoti-ate after the two sides met with a feder-al mediator on Wednesday night, said school board president Martin Gene. News sources said Thursday that the teachers' union had rejected a proposed settlement. "We though we had a tentative agree-ment," he said. "Unfortunately, that waan't the case. "There are no further plans to talk at this time." The board has requested ar-binations.

Union officials released a statement through their president Daphna Feld-man, who could not be reached for fur-ther comment. "Our role is to educate children, not protest in the streets."

Knowing what to do

bitration.

....

Dawn Simmons, a Farmington Hills resident and pediatric nurse technician at Detroit's Henry Ford Hospital, was taking her morning break on what she thought was tryical Monday morning recently. Studdenly, a white Jeep Cherokee came roaring into the parking loci, its horn blairing. As a he approached the car, aho feared the worst — a gunshot wound. Insteed, she found a woman about to give blith. The baby was on the way, there was no time to wait for a doctor and stretchers. Simmons, a Wayne State University nursing student, put her education to work.

work. "Thank heaven I'd had my OB (obstatrics) rota-tion already," said Simmons, who delivered the baby, coaching the mother through the birth. "I was calm

That includes $187,500 from a state Department of Natural Resources grant and $62,000 matching money

day camp. "We're

"We're not heating this building, consequently this will be for seasonal use," Potter said. The newer and larger portion of the day camp building, which is expected to be completed by mid-September,

Gene would not comment on whether