2001 Academie (Contract)

TRAVEL

City has 350th birthday celebration and everyone's invited

BY KATHERINE ASHENBURG NEW YORK TIMES SYNDICATE

The logo for Montreal's 350th birthday celebrations shows a man, wedged between symbols of Mount Royal and the St. Lawrence River, welcoming the four corners of the world.

Well, so far it hasn't happened that way, to the disappointment of Montreal's hoteliers and taxi drivthat way, to the disappointment of montreal's hoteliers and taxi drivers.

The recession and probably some (groundless) anxiety about political discontent in Quebec have made for festivities that are more familial and subdued than those great local touchatones, Expo '67 and the '76 Olympits.

Because Montreal loves to party and has an unquenchable Gallie penchant for street life and crowd scenes, the inhabitants seem and crowd scenes, the inhabitants seems to the development of the traveler spain. The city has been spruced up and there's more to do and see than ever, the streets are cherefully but not uncumfortably busy; and there's plenty of room in hotels and restaurants.

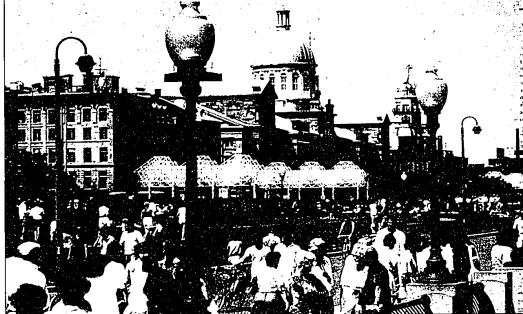

ty of room in hotels and restaurants.

If this suggests that the city threw a party and no one came, that's definitely not the case. It's just that visitors have the agreeable sensation of being included in a family birthday party rather than a hash for outsiders.

The list of spectacles, public events and exhibitions planned from now until mid-October fills a plump 47-page booklet (available at Marche Bonsecours, Old Montreal's refurbished 19th-century market which is the anniversary information center, 350 St. Paul St. (514 527-2792 or 800-463-6350). They range from intimate fetes for neighborhoods and ethnic groups to special editions of the city's biggest laie-summer and carly-fall attractions.

Of course most of these celebrations course most of these celebra-tions — film festivals, comedy festi-vals, walking tours of Jewish Mon-treal, bicycle tours — would have been incunceivable to the city's founders, Paul de Chomedy, who was Sieur de Maisonneuve, and Jennne Mance. They marked their arrival on the island of Montreal on May 17, 1642, by offering a Mass and decorated the alter with jurs of ireflies, But, when it comes to celefireflies. But, when it comes to celebrating in Montreal, each to his own taste.

IS COURTESY OF GREATER MOVE (REAL

Events

The city has created a new down-town square, Place du 350e, in hon-or of its birthday.

"Rome: 1,000 years of Civiliza-tion" is a one-time collection of more than 200 objects selected from Italian museums on show daily, 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., at the Palais de la Civilisation, on the lie de Notre Dame (514-872-4560), until Sept. 27-$10.50

Dancers from the Bolshoi, L'Oppancers from the Bulsato, L Op-era de Paris, les Grands Bullet Canadiens and the New York City Ballet perform in the 350th birth-day edition of the Gala des Etoiles at Place des Arts. Tickets range from $12.60 to $84; call (514) 934-

Sightseeing

Birthday parties come and go, but thankfully not all Montreal'a presents to itself are transitors; 1992 may well be remembered as the year the city commemorated its 350th with a quartet of new or significantly augmented museums.

The most prominent is the Desmarais Pavilion of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts, 1380 Sher-brooke St. West (514:285-1600), which opened last fall. Designed by Moshe Safdie, it is across the street from the museum's original build-ing and competed to it by under trom the museums original outling and connected to it by under-ground galleries.

The pavilion is a not always di-gestible mix of heritage facade and modern elements, and Safdlie's would-be processional staircase forces visitors into a mincing gait.

But inside the galleries are thoughtfully planned to accommodate a rich cross section from the permanent collection as well as special exhibitions. Open Tuesday to Sunday, 11 am. to 6 p.m., on Wednesday and Saturday until 9 p.m. The admission is $4.20.

p.m. The admission is $4.20. This summer's special exhibit at the Desmarais Pavillion, more than 150 drawings, aculptures, paintings and engravings arranged to shed light on Michelangelo the sculptor, is on display until Sept. 13. Tickets for "The Genius of the Sculptor in Michelangelo's Work." which include general admission, cost $8.40.

A few blocks down the street the McCord Museum of Consdian His-tory, 690 Sherbrooke St. West (514-398-7100), has just taken the wraps off an impressive renovation and a new wing by the architecta LeMoyne Lapointe Magne in association with Jodoin, Lamarre, Pratte & Associates that doubles ita

The McCord always knew how to use its motherlode of objects, from Indian costumes to 18th-century armoires to milk-bottle caps, bringing Canadian social history vividly to life. Happily, its aleck new surface just means there's more of a good thing. Open Tuesday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday and Sunto 9 p.m.; Saturday and Sunto 19 p.m.; Saturday 19 p.m.; Saturda day 10 to 5. Admission is $4.20 (free Thursdays 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.). Established almost 30 years ago, the Montreal Museum of Contemporary Art, 185 Site-Catherine St. West (514-847-6226), had a permanent collection of 3.500 objects but no home of its own until Batt apring. The most original and diverting of the new museums is the one that goes furthest back to the city's origins. Visitors to Pointe-a-Califers, the deconstructionist museum by the architect Dan Hanganuat 350

Along the promenade of the Old Port of Montreal, above, visitors can watch per formers, rent a bike or visit many teraraces, restaurant and oicnic areas At left is Mohtreal's Olympic Stading.

Place Royale, Old Montreri (614-872-9150), will find a dazzlimgnu-scum of archeology and historythat makes canny use of an archaeologi-cal site (including a 17th-century cometery and a 19th-century seizer), a witty multiserren film sbout Montreel's history and interactive videos about the first (inhabitants. This cerie walk through the city's foundations is highly recommend-ed. The museum is open 10 s.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is 35, free on Wednesdays after 5.

Getting a line on fly-fishing

By EVERETT POTTER

"In our family there was no clear ligion and fly-fishing," writes Norman Maclean in "A fiver Runa Through it" (University of Chicago Press, 1976).

By now, the book has sold more than 350,000 copies, Maclean, 73, is a university of Chicago professor emeritus of English.

emeritus of English.
And soon "A River Runs Through It," a film starring Robert Redford, will add to the fly-fishing mystique. It is set to open this sutumn.

No doubt, after the movie hita theaters new fly-fishing devotees will appear like freshly hatched mayliles on the water.

"There's a real romance to fly-fishing, And it appeals to people who may never have done any other outdoor sports," asya Doug Truax, a spokesman for Orvis, a Manchester, Vt.-based company that has sold fishing and outdoor goods since 1850.

But able to Company that the spokesman for the spokesman for Orvis, a Manchester, Vt.-based company that has sold fishing and outdoor goods since 1850.

But white fly-fishing has a meditative, cultilke appeal, few sports are as intimidating the novice. First, it smacks of a kind of gentility, even elitism, that makes many people uncomfortable. Second, a fly rod and line is often to a thing of beauty in the hands of a beginner. More commonly, it's a nightmare of tangles and frustration. Orvis sells dozens of different tion.

Orvis sells dozens of different graphite and bamboo fly rods, precision-mode fly rels, floating lines, sinking lines and enough nymphs, atteamers and dry flies to fill any fly box to the brim.
In schools around the country, they also teach people to use the equipment.
"If you've ever tried to learn it on your own and found yourself flailing in the bushes, with your fly stuck up in a tree, the school can be very helpful," says Truaz.
"We try and correct these casting faults before you ever get a hook on the end of the line."
Studenta learn the forward cast, roll cast, side cast and foll-cast pickup. They study how to false cast and shoot line. They also learn the essential knots for tying flies.
Students find out which flies to choose for trout, salmon, bass,

Students find out which lives to choose for trout, salmon, bases, steelhead and saltwater fish. They're taught to read a stream to identify where the fish live and to wade without disturbing the fish or tripping and falling in.

Students begin by casting on two Orvis-property ponds. Then they graduate to the banks of the Battenkill River, one of Vermont's best-known trout attends.

"I look out at those ponds when a new class is there, and I see people hardy able to get their line out," Truas says. "After a couple of days there 6 20 lines laying out there the say they were meant to."

Classes are no larger than 30 students. The ratin of students to instructors is four to one.
"About 25 percent of our atudents are women," Truas says.
"And we recently rant two classes just for kids age 11 and up. They were both filled."

The tuition is $300 per person.
This includes two and a half days of instruction, a three-day Vermont fishing license, daily lunch at the famed Equinost Hotel in Manchester and use of Orsis equipment. Transportation and lodging are extre.

Students can stay at the Equinox tra.

Students can stay at the Equinox for approximately $100 per night (double occupancy) or can be ac-commodated at local inns or motels for about $50 a night and up.

'When you're finished you should be able to fish a stream on your own — tie knots, make a decision about which fly to use and cast your line with a certain amount of skill.'

Doug Truax spokesman for Orvis

Can this aport really be taught?

"When you're finished you should be able to finish a stream or your own — tie knots, make a decision about which fly to use andonst your line with a certain smouthef skill," says Truaz.

"But it will take you a lifetime to refine that skill. That's the native of the sport."

of the sport."
The Orvis Fly Fishing School is also offered by selected dealers in the following states, with variations on the basic program to suit each locale: California, Colorado, Getta, ia, Kentucky, Maryland, Masachusetta, Michigan, Missouri, Morttana, New York, North Carolina;

tana, New York, North Caroline, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Viginia,
For more information on experies rograms contact Orvis, Mangeater, Vt. 05254 or call (600) 22 6763.
For a free copy of Orvis' latering catalog call (800) 548 555.
L.L. Bean, also a major New Ingland purveyor of outdoor gear, after fly-fishing instruction near its bome base of Freeport, Malina, Bean's Introductory Fly Fishing Skills is a full three-day coulde held on selected weekenda.

A $385 per-person fee inclifiding instruction, use of equipment and daily lunches. Accommodation cabe arranged at managed daily lunches. Accommodation car be arranged at nearby inns of rep-tels.

be arranged at nearny time or mer-tels. For further information contines.
L.L. Bean, Outdoor Discovery Program, Freeport, Maine 04033er Fall (800) 341-4341, ext. 3100. Forg free copy of L.L. Bean's Fly Fishing 1992 catalog call (800) 221-4221.

Schools of fishing: It is possible to teach the sport of fly-fishing, even to adventurers who had bad luck when they tried it on their own.