

POLICE/FIRE CALLS

Listed below are some of the Farmington-area police incidents, fire calls and court cases reported during the past week.

BOMB THREAT
Farmington Hills police found nothing after employees of a Northwestern Highway company received two bomb threats from an unidentified man Wednesday, according to a police report.

"There's a bomb in the building, you better take this seriously," the man reportedly said. In a second phone call, a man said, "there's a bomb in your building."

The building was evacuated. Police then checked the building and found nothing suspicious.

MAN PLEADS
A 46-year-old Farmington Hills man was one of two former computer trade school officers who pleaded guilty to federal charges in late September.

Douglas Cash, the former vice president of Com-Tech of Southfield, pleaded guilty to misapplying federal financial aid by failing to make refunds of financial aid provided for Com-Tech students who enrolled in computer classes but did not complete their courses. Cash entered his guilty pleas before U.S. District Judge Lawrence P. Zatkoff, according to U.S. Attorney Stephen Markman.

Tuition paid to a school that is attributable to any portion of a course not completed by a student is called unearned tuition. The law requires that unearned tuition be refunded promptly to the source of the unearned tuition, such as lenders or the federal government.

Under his plea agreement, Cash faces a maximum one year in prison and will pay a $50,000 fine.

Com-Tech pleaded guilty to conspiring with the Detroit Engineering Institute to defraud the U.S. Department of Education from 1986-89 by causing Com-Tech to obtain federal financial aid for its students when it was unaccredited and not eligible to participate in federal financial aid programs.

Com-Tech used DEI's name and federal code number, and the Com-Tech operation was represented to regulators to be owned and controlled by DEI, an accredited institution. Com-Tech was neither owned or controlled by DEI.

As part of Com-Tech's plea with the federal government, Com-Tech will pay $1 million in restitution to the U.S. Department of Education.

INDECENT EXPOSURE

An unidentified man reportedly exposed himself to two 13-year-old girls as they walked on Hawthorne Wednesday, according to a Farmington Hills police report.

As the girls walked northbound on Hawthorne, a man drove by on the southbound lane and waved toward them.

As the driver slowed the car by the girls, he whistled and lifted his hips to show he was fondling himself. The man blew kisses at the girls and drove away.

THEFTS REPORTED

A touring bike valued at $800 was reported stolen from a house on Gloucester Circle, Sept. 15-16. An amplifier and other car stereo equipment valued at $1,000 were reported stolen from a 1990 Jeep at Orchard Creek Apartments on Orchard Lake Road, Oct. 7.

A VCR, clothes and rings valued at $8,300 were reported stolen from a unit of the Newport Creek Apartments on Eight Mile, Oct. 7-8.

Pumpkins 'n' family
