

Go out on limb when choosing tree toppers

The earliest Christmas ornaments were heavy blown-glass balls, lined in shiny lead and filled with colored wax. Known as kugels, they hung in windows until Queen Victoria and Prince Albert popularized the Christmas tree and the weighty halls were used to separate the branches that held flaming candles.

While the Victorians elevated Christmas to a While the Victorians elevated Christmas to a constant of the color of t

While the Victorians elevated Christmas to a nageant of tinsel and garland, and wrapped the celebration in heavenly angels and jolly Santas, the holiday grew even more opulent over the years and turned commercial just before World War II. It was then that the first American Christmas but company, bearing the trademark Shiny Brite, discovered a way to mass produce ornaments. Each season as you dig through your boxes of tree trimmers, you probably recall a memory associated with every bauble. Whether a mouth-blown antique or a handmade paper cutout from kindergarten days, ornaments not only transform an ordinary tree, but envelop us in warm family tradition.

tion.
In searching for fun and imaginative tree toppers, I encountered shoppers with varying tastes and ideas. Each had a personal favorite.

Ruth Seller of Farmington started with mice and added from there.

Annalee Thorndike Is a household name to her devoted fell characters like the elf pictured ($17). The original hand-painted faces are filled with expression. You can see the entire Annalee Dolls collection at The Village Barn and Christmas Attie in Franklin.

toppers. She chose an old-inationed set runs cleaked in green and red velvet, and holding a lighted weath.

Not to be missed at The Christmas Attic are the Christopher Radko limited edition mouth-blown glass ornaments, crafted by Eastern European glass workers.

In addition to Santas, teddy bears are popular tree ornaments and Larry and Connte Beaber of Dearborn create an entire bear tree. I found them in Jacobson's Birmingham store carefully choosing among the glass bears. Jacobson's also has an array of stuffed bears and other lovable nnimals on a toy-themed tree.

Straying a bit from tradition, Harissa Miller of Farmington enjoys designing her own contemporary creation for the crown of her tree. Shopping with her son, John, Hiller described her extravagant decoration as a glittering mixture of silver applies, tulle netting, tiny star garland, and a huge miler how with long trailing ribbons.

I found the silver sprays (50), gold netting (38) and silver and gold star garland (34) at Jacobson's and Willer auggested Jo-Ann Fabrics for the yards of tulle.

And so the tree-trimming party begins. Pop some corn for stringing and be patient with those endless strands of lights. Sing along with your favorite carols, a medieval custom renewed by the Queen of Christman, Victoria.

Next week, I'll deek your entrance hall with welcoming ideas that cheerfully usher guests into your home.

Linda Bachrack is a Birmingham resident. If you have a subject for her column, she can be Linda Bachrack is a Birmingham resident. If you have a subject for her column, she can be reached via touch-tone phone at 953-2047, Ext. 1889.

PINOCCHIO

Northland store's exhibit pulls at holiday beart strings

Pinocchio's promise: "I'll study hard," the puppet tells Gepetto in a scene from Hudson's holiday exhibit at the Northland Mall in Southfield. Watching Pinocchio swing his new schoolbooks are Caitlin and Ian Pasqualone of Redford.

It took seven semi-trucks to move the Pinocchio display to Northland Hudson's. The display is an adaptation of Carlo Collodi's version of the tale about a impoverished, lonely woodcutter who whittles a marionette boy.

BY SUSAN DEMAGGIO STAFF WRITER

BY SUBAN DEMACHO
STATP WAITES

Joey Kleffer, 6, of Mount
Clemens, skipped through the Hudson's parking lot at Northland Mall wearing a long, plastic nose secured to his face by an elastic band.

"I loved the Pinocchio show," he said. "It was very good. The best part I liked was when they were inside the whele."
Kieffer said his dad, Thomas, and little sister veronica, 16 months,
also enjoyed the Pinocchio display.
After walking through the series of 20 animated vignettes, the children got their picture taken with Sants.

Ed Czarnecki of Huntington.

Ed Czarnecki of Huntington Woods, had the same idea as he guided his two toddlers through the Italian village of enchantment last week.

Emma, 5, spoke while her brother Nicholaus, 3, shook his head in agreement.
"It's a good, good show," she said.
"We have the tape of Pinocchio and we watched it three times. But this is better than the movie."

Not all the visitors to Hudson's third annual holiday fairy tale display were school age.

Emma Paster of Oak Park, and a Hudson's employee, said she came to work early to walk through the exhibit.

"Of course I like it," she laughed. "Why shouldn't I? It's beautiful. We didn't have anything like this when I was a young child.

The display is an adaptation of Carlo Collodi's version of the children's tale about a impoverished, lonely woodculter who whittles a marionette boy who turns the village upside down with his mischief.

The blue fairy follows for some good behavior to warrant changing him into a real boy.

Whean's Liminy?

Where's Jiminy?

Where's Jiminy?
"There's no Jiminy Cricket in our story which confuses some children and adults," said Karen Kleinfeld of Hudson's public relations. "That was Disney's addition to the tale.
Theatrical designer Jack Barkla and a team of talented artisens created the backdrops. Jack Edwards, noted for his work with the Guthrie Theter, designed all the characters' costumes.

"Last year we depicted Peter Pan in our holiday gift to the community," she said. "In 1990 we presented Cinderella. Northland Hudson's was selected for the display because it's our flagship store and the store with an exhibition hall large enough to accommodate the crowds and scenery."

to accommodate the crowds and scenery."

It took seven semi-trucks to move the Pinocchio displey from its birth-place in Minnespolis to Michigan last January.

In August a group of artists began painting and rebuilding the little Italian village.

Watch for the magical illusions created to change Pinocchio from a donkey back into a puppet and later from a puppet into a real boy.

Before it comes down on Dec. 31, more than 400,000 visitors are expected to view the exhibit.

The tour through Geppetto's village takes 20-40 minutes. Visitors read storybook passages over each scene as they move through the displeys. Background music and theat-tical lighting provide an added dimension to the animation.

At the end of the tour a roomful of Pinocchio merchandise awaits shoppers who want a souvenir of the exhibit.

Group reservations

Group reservations

School and group reservations are available from 9-1:30 p.m. daily through Dec. 18 by calling 432-4138.

Angele and Ann Pasquadone of Redford brought their grandchildren Ian, 3, and Caitlin, 5, to Northland "to see Pinocchio."

"It's Ian's birthday so we took the children to lunch and to have their pictures taken with Santa," Ann said. "We wanted to spend a special day with them, a day that would bring hoppy memories to all of us."

The Rivera Family of Redford also toured the exhibit hoping to start a holiday tradition with their daughters, Robeka, 2, and Rachel, tugging her little sister onto the next scene. "I think all the kids should come to see Pinocchio and watch the tape at home. We love it."

Separate from the Pinocchio exhibit, but also on the lower level, Santa's Workshop is a second holiday treat.

The 1,300-square-foot shop features 30 elves busily preparing packages for Christmas. Santa moves about the workshop wearing either his traditional aut or suspenders over his work shirt and pants. Photo packages run $6-540. ders over his work shirt and pants. Photo packages run $6-$16.

Yes, Virginia, there are Santa Clauses

By Susan Demaggio Staff Writer

STAFF WHITES
"Every year we try and come up with a new way for Santa to arrive at the mall. This year someone suggested Santa bungee jump down from our new 85-foot-high glass pyramid. We nixed that plan. Too risky. He will arrive at the Southland Mall following a musical performance by Ebony and leave."

Charleen Lamphear, marketing Southland Mall, Taylor

The mon in the red flannel suit will arrive at shopping centers this weekend every which way but down the chimney. He'll be introduced by television stars, preceded by marching bunds, heralded by knights on horse-back and driven to his workshop in a glided carriage.

At Lakeside Mall in Sterling Heights, Sonta will host eight hot breakfasts at six different cateries beginning at 9 a.m. from Dec. 7 through Dec. 20.

"This is very special for the little ones," said Karen McDonald, Lakeside marketing director.

Santa will also speak in American Siga Language from Dec. 11-13 during a weekend of special holiday activities for hearing-impaired young-sters at Lakeside.

At Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi, Santa will receive his letters from a magic mailbox that shoots a child's note up a 40-foot tube, chased by lights, accompanied by a little explosion and pepping sounds.

"Every child who sends a letter to Sonta at the Twelve Oaks North Polestal Service is guaranteed a reply from Santa himself," said Elaine Kah, marketing director.

At the Somerset Collection in Troy, Santa will be the guest of honor at a week of teas in the Rotunda at 4 p.m. Dec. 10-13. Reservations are a must. Parents are advised to bring their own cameras and video equipment.

Santa will arrive at the Mainstreet shopping districts leading Christmas parades and caroling. He'll be in Plymouth at 12:45 p.m. Dec. 6 at Kellogg Park. In Rochester at Lagniappe, throughout the evening of Nov. 30, and again Dec. 6-24 for pictures at Lindmeyer Photo.

Santa will visit downtown Farm-ington Dec. 5 after a helicopter land-ing at 11 a.m.

MONDAY, NOV. 23

Carousel rides
Now through Dec. 31. $1. Full-size 35-foot high, old-fash-ioned carousel, Located between JC Penney and Kohl's, across from food court. Bring a camera.

NORTHLAND MALL EIGHT MILE/GREENFIELD. 443-8248.

443-0248.
Sonta photos
North Court now through Dec. 24, Special "Carousel Christmas" display features hand-painted Pierrol dolls, gliding horses and sparkling ice lights.

LAUREL PARK PLACE. W. SIX MILE/NEWBURGH. 462-1100.

492-1100.

Magic misibox
Kris send letters off to North Pole via dazzing holiday display, Now through Dec. 24. Display includes four-piece band of joint muscle instruments and covert had complete with muscle arches, godden gettings, red display and brass instruments. Solida healthy for profits of the prof

9438. ame Street Santa tos available in hands-on display featuring Big Bird, Hairy ister, Oscar the Grouch, Cookie Monster, Bert and Emic. r through Dec. 24. Christmas trees decorated with

ABCS.
OAKLAND MALL, 175/14 MILE ROAD.
988-9000.
Alsteway Market
Six new veridors move into shopping earls throughout the mail. cit items include water sport accessories, western wear, candie equipment, video games.

SUMMIT PLACE MALL, TELEGRAPH/ELIZABETH LAKE, 682-0123.

682-0123. Abercrombie's Opens Only Abercrombie & Fitch store in Michigan, Men's and

ADDED ATTRACTIONS

LAKESIDE MALL. HALL/SCHOENHERR. 866-7816.

FRIDAY, NOV. 27

BLOOD DRIVE American Red Cross. 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Wanderland Mall. Phymouth/Middlebelt, 522-4100.

SANTA ARRIVES Waterford Kare SANTA ARRYES
Waterford Kettering High School Band will lead parade through mail. Free balloons and cany. Pupper mobile performs weekends through Dec. 6. Sonta photos 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays, 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sundays Grand Court stage area.

Symmet Face Mail. Telegraph/Elizabeth Lake.

692-0123.

INOREL MOLIDAY TRAIN
Two-tier display on stage in front of JC Penney. Whisties and wheels, Features tresties, mountain ranges, ico skating and hockey ninks, lighted villages and Santa as engineer, New until Jan. 2.

Summit Pace Mail. Tolegraphy/Eluabeth Lake.
682-0123.

HOSPICE BENEFIT
Light Up A Life With Love. Third annual through Dec. 30. Jacobson's Court. Shoppers can buy memorial ornaments and place on special tree. Proceeds to Angela Hospice of Livonia, Redford Harmony Quartet performs near tree at noon, Saturday, Nov. 28.

Laurel Park Place, W. Str Mile/Newburgh, 462-1100.

Salts Fifth Avenue, Third floor, Through Dec. 24, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Somerset Collection, Big Beaver/Coolidge, 643-9000.

Saturday, Nov. 28
BOOK $10KINO
Mitch Albom, 1:30-2:30 p.m. B. Dalton,
Westland Mall, Wayne/Warren,
427-2280.

BLOOD PRESSURE SCREENING Sponsored by American Heart Association, Free, 11 a.m. to

E p.sn. Wonderland Mall, Plymouth/Middlebell, 522-4100.

Monday, Nov. 30

LAGNIAPPE
Downtown Rochester, 6-9 p.m. Shoppers receive "a little something sate" from participating membrants. Tree lighting is not of City Mal. 127 University at Walnut 7 p.m.
VCSX-adio van vote for beet holiday window display.
Rochester Road/University.
Rochester Road/University.

TOYS FOR TOTS

Now through Dec. 20. Bring new, unwrapped toys for distri-bution to the needy, information booth in front of Woolworth s. Wonderland Mall. Plymouth/Middlebelt. 522-4100.