FARMINGTON
NOTES

Book store honored

The Farmington Little Professor Book Center, in the Grand River/Halsted Shopping Center, was honored at the company's national convention in Ann Arbor this fall.

The book store owners, Richard and Paula Herstein, received the Professor's Choice award for excellence in six areas: marketing, staff management, direct mail, community involvement, financial and inventory management, and support of the franchise organization.

Sauk goes international

Federal APD Inc., a Farmington Hills-based manufacturer of parking and access control systems, has appointed James J. Sauk international sales manager.

Sauk has more than 12 years of international sales experience, with his most recent position as international fleet sales manager for Chrysler Corp. He will assume responsibility for the company's marketing efforts in Europe, the Commonwealth of Independent States, and Pacific Rim countries.

New business

Dr. Larry J. Holland opened his Holland Family Chiropractic Center earlier this month in the Courtyard Plaza in Farmington Hills.

Holland, a member of the Farmington/Farmington Hills Chamber of Commerce, is offering a chiropractic exam with free X-rays and a reduced rate for a first adjustment.

The center, at 32522 Northwestern Highway, is open from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. and 2-6 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday and evenings and Saturdays by appointment. Call 85-4900 for further information.

Lions service

George Nauman, a 25-year member of the Farmington Area Lions Club, recently received a plaque and lapel pin in recognition of his long service and designation as a Melvin Jones Fellow.

The Lions Club International Foundation presented the award in recognition of Nauman's service to the "world Community."
