

Senators try again to push abortion law through

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

The state Senate is trying a second time to pass an "informed consent" abortion law.

Again it is running into heavy debate over whether it really informs women or parrots Right to Life's anti-abortion views.

"We have put together legislation that gives a woman the right to know," said sponsor Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo. "That's not happening today in the abortion clinic process. We are establishing the patient-doctor relationship that is not there today."

"Before our committee, 19 women testified in support of the bill; 16 had had abortions; 13 of them did not know, had never known, the name of the doctor who performed the abortion."

NO — Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills.
ABSENT — William Faust, D-Westland.

No amendments

As usual, the debate was long, bitter and laced with attempts to amend the bill.

Sen. Lena Pollock, D-Ann Arbor, lost an amendment to require that women be counseled on the "emotional stress" caused by giving up a baby for adoption, including the danger "a parent's relationship with subsequent children."

That was shot down, 10 yes to 23 no. Honlgman of West Bloomfield crossed the battle line to support it.

Pollock said the bill will force women "to jump through another legal barrier put up by the dominant male police officers who serve as senators in this body — individuals who never have been pregnant, never will be pregnant, many of whom I maintain have helped pregnant women with whom they have been involved, emotionally or otherwise, to seek an abortion."

Senators also rejected, 9 yes and 25 no, the amendment of pro-choice Sen. Joe Conroy, D-Flint, that would have required women to be told the cost of neonatal intensive care and social services if they bear the child instead of obtaining an abortion.

Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, a pro-life point man, exploded at Conroy's amendment: "I sat quietly through most of this debate today, but I just can't sit by quietly when we see an amendment that starts to place monetary value on life. Life is not a cost. Life is productive and produces worth."

What bill says

The bill sets a 24-hour waiting period between the time a woman is counseled on abortion and the abortion. It requires:

- "Private, individual counseling."
- "The patient's informed written consent, given freely and without coercion."
- "The name of the physician who will perform the abortion."
